Decarbonization of Cities in Asia Vincent S. Cheng, Guo-Jun Li, 2023-09-12 This book provides best practices for decarbonizing cities in East Asia in which buildings are the major contributor to carbon emissions Beyond the global commitment through the Paris Agreement to make collective efforts on climate action and accelerated policies investment and development at the country and city level to combat climate change are occurring at an unprecedented rate Rapid urbanization and increasing energy demand for large and dense Asian cities require smart and sustainable strategies to balance development with decarbonization A poly centric approach is needed where a combination of policy market and technology driven changes can aid the transition towards development of carbon neutral cities With practical examples in the implementation of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals green financing climate action roadmap and policy deployment of renewable energy and low to zero carbon buildings readers can find the motivation considerations and implementation pathways to facilitate the transition into the new normal It is the hope of the authors to encourage readers to see successful pathways in transitioning into a carbon free industry and overcoming the effects of climate extremes

Environment and Sustainability in a Globalizing World Andrea J. Nightingale, 2019-03-27 From the Foundations in Global Studies series this student friendly text follows a two pronged approach to help readers understand the globalizing processes relating to environment and sustainability which are examined in a range of disciplines including environmental studies geography global studies political science international affairs comparative politics and other disciplines First it presents foundational material that gives students the conceptual underpinnings required for rigorous analysis Following the Introduction and Overview Part One presents a brief historical overview of the concerns revolving around environmental sustainability in the modern era The text then covers key concepts and theoretical constructs that define the global context for sustainable environmental practices such as the key thinkers and theories pertaining to sustainable environmental practice and the key international agencies and treaties involved in global discussions The first part then explores the various models and ways to measure sustainability the range of environmental domains at play in the sustainability dialogue and the controversies surrounding them Part Two employs case studies to examine theory and practice at work in particular situations The case studies have been selected with an eye toward comprehensiveness of coverage across disciplines and across regions

Sustainable Action Christian Berg, 2019-11-13 In this timely exploration of sustainable actions Christian Berg unpacks the complexity in understanding the barriers we face in moving towards a sustainable future providing solution perspectives for every level from individuals to governments and supra national organizations offering a lucid vision of a long term and achievable goal for sustainability While the 2030 Agenda has already set ambitious targets for humanity it offers little guidance for concrete actions Although much is already being done progress seems slow and some actions aiming at sustainability may be counterproductive Different disciplines societal actors governmental departments and NGOs attribute the slow progress to a number of different causes from the corruption of politicians to the wrong incentive structures Sustainable Action surveys all the fields involved in sustainability to provide action principles which speak to actors of different kinds not just those professionally mandated with such changes It offers a road map to all those who might not constantly think about systems change but who are concerned and want to contribute to a sustainable future in a meaningful way This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of sustainability issues as well as those looking for a framework for how to change their systems at work to impact the quadruple bottom line environment economy society and future generations
