

FROM THE ACADEMY AWARD-WINNING DIRECTOR OF ROCKY AND THE KARATE KID

A boy, orphaned in a land he loved.
In harmony with a people that were not his family.
Challenge developed his fists. Outrage awakened his courage.
In the struggle for change...In the pursuit of freedom...
One person can make a difference.

Mizruchi,2014-07-14 In this provocative study Susan Mizruchi argues that the act of writing history is the key to the political concerns of American novelists Using nineteenth century theories of history as well as recent narratological models she examines reconstructions of the past in The House of the Seven Gables 1851 The Bostonians 1886 The Wings of the Dove 1902 and An American Tragedy 1925 Her special focus allows us to see that the efforts on the part of characters and narrators alike to reshape the past reveal both anxieties about the self and larger struggles for political power Professor Mizruchi demonstrates the deepening connections between narrative and political coercion from Hawthorne to Dreiser whose novels as she further shows both incorporate and portray their characters incorporating the conditions of their contemporary worlds Her argument addresses a major contemporary dialogue on the subversive qualities of American texts and the place of history in literary interpretation Originally published in 1988 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books

The Power of Legitimacy Christopher Gelpi, 2003 A major departure from mainstream security studies this book mounts a thoughtful challenge to realist theories of crisis bargaining It tests the proposition that normative standards of behavior influence state actions in security related conflicts Specifically it examines the construction of bilateral norms as the settlements of security related disputes and the effects these settlements have on subsequent interactions over the same issue Drawing on institutionalist arguments about the informational impact of norms Christopher Gelpi contends that norms act as signals that give meaning to other states behavior in at least two important ways First they provide a mutually acceptable focal point for limiting both demands and concessions Second security norms change the context in which coercive behavior is interpreted That is norms can cause coercive behavior to be interpreted as punishment rather than aggression Gelpi tests this argument against its most prominent competitor a realist model of crisis bargaining in three stages First he uses a probit analysis to perform a quantitative test on the population of 122 reinitiated international crises between 1929 and 1979 Second he conducts detailed case studies of the Cienfuegos Submarine Conflict and the Six Day War Finally he conducts a second statistical analysis examining the conditions under which security norms will succeed or fail While hypotheses derived from realist coercion theory receive only mixed support Gelpi finds strong evidence that states can and do construct normative standards that guide their behavior in international crises
