The Global Politics of Poverty in Canada Will Langford, 2021-01-16 In the 1960s and 1970s in the midst of the Cold War and an international decolonization movement development advocates believed that poverty could be ended at home and abroad. The Global Politics of Poverty in Canada explores the relationship between poverty, democracy, and development during this remarkable period. Will Langford analyzes three Canadian development programs that unfolded on local, regional, and international scales. He reveals the interconnections of anti-poverty activism carried out by the Company of Young Canadians among Métis in northern Alberta and francophones in Montreal by the Cape Breton Development Corporation and by Canadian University Service Overseas in Tanzania. In dialogue with the New Left liberal reformers committed to development programs they believed would empower the poor to confront their own poverty and thereby foster a more meaningful democracy. However, democracy and development proved to be fundamentally contested, and development programs stopped short of amending capitalist social relations and the inequalities they engendered. The Global Politics of Poverty in Canada explores how Canadians engaged in informal and formal politics in the course of their everyday lives locally and transnationally. Langford provides an enduring record of otherwise fleeting anti-poverty programs and their effects the lived activism and opinions of development workers and ordinary people
