Next-Generation Homeland Security John Morton, 2012-10-15 Security governance in the second decade of the 21st century is ill serving the American people Left uncorrected civic life and national continuity will remain increasingly at risk At stake well beyond our shores is the stability and future direction of an international political and economic system dependent on robust and continued U S engagement Outdated hierarchical industrial structures and processes configured in 1947 for the Cold War no longer provide for the security and resilience of the homeland Security governance in this post industrial digital age of complex interdependencies must transform to anticipate and if necessary manage a range of cascading catastrophic effects whether wrought by asymmetric adversaries or technological or natural disasters Security structures and processes that perpetuate a 20th century top down federal centric governance model offer Americans no more than a single point of failure The strategic environment has changed the system has not Changes in policy alone will not bring resolution U S security governance today requires a means to begin the structural and process transformation into what this book calls Network Federalism Charting the origins and development of borders out security governance into and through the American Century the book establishes how an expanding techno industrial base enabled American hegemony Turning to the homeland it introduces a borders in narrative the convergence of the functional disciplines of emergency management civil defense resource mobilization and counterterrorism into what is now called homeland security For both policymakers and students a seminal work in the yet to be established homeland security canon this book records the political dynamics behind the creation of the Department of Homeland Security the impact of Hurricane Katrina and the ongoing development of what is now called the Homeland Security Enterprise The work makes the case that national security governance has heretofore been one dimensional involving horizontal interagency structures and processes at the Federal level Yet homeland security in this federal republic has a second dimension that is vertical intergovernmental involving sovereign states and local governments whose personnel are not in the President s chain of command In the strategic environment of the post industrial 21st century states thus have a co equal role in strategy and policy development resourcing and operational execution to perform security and resilience missions This book argues that only a Network

Federal governance will provide unity of effort to mature the Homeland Security Enterprise The places to start implementing network federal mechanisms are in the ten FEMA regions To that end it recommends establishment of Regional Preparedness Staffs composed of Federal state and local personnel serving as co equals on Intergovernmental Personnel Act IPA rotational assignments These IPAs would form the basis of an intergovernmental and interdisciplinary homeland security professional cadre to build a collaborative national preparedness culture As facilitators of regional unity of effort with regard to prioritization of risk planning resourcing and operational execution these Regional Preparedness Staffs would provide the Nation with decentralized network nodes enabling security and resilience in this 21st century post industrial strategic environment
