Numerical Development - From cognitive functions to neural underpinnings Korbinian Moeller,Elise Klein,Klaus F Willmes - von Hinckeldey,Karin Kucian,2015-02-24 Living at the beginning of the 21st century requires being numerate because numerical abilities are not only essential for life prospects of individuals but also for economic interests of post industrial knowledge societies Thus numerical development is at the core of both individual as well as societal interests There is the notion that we are already born with a very basic ability to deal with small numerosities Yet this often called number sense seems to be very restricted approximate and driven by perceptual constraints During our numerical development in formal e g school but also informal contexts e g family street we acquire culturally developed abstract symbol systems to represent exact numerosities in particular number words and Arabic digits refining our numerical capabilities In recent years numerical development has gained increasing research interest documented in a growing number of behavioural neuro scientific educational cross cultural and neuropsychological studies addressing this issue Additionally our understanding of how numerical competencies develop has also benefitted considerably from the advent of different neuro imaging techniques allowing for an evaluation of developmental changes in the human brain In sum we are now starting to put together a more and more coherent picture of how numerical competencies develop and how this development is associated with neural changes as well In the end this knowledge might also lead to a better understanding of the reasons for atypical numerical development which often has grievous consequences for those who suffer from developmental dyscalculia or mathematics learning disabilities Therefore this Research Topic deals with all aspects of numerical development findings from behavioural performance to underlying neural substrates from cross sectional to longitudinal evaluations from healthy to clinical populations To this end we included empirical contributions using different experimental methodologies but also theoretical contributions review articles or opinion papers The Promise of Response to Intervention Todd A. Glover, Sharon Vaughn, 2010-02-25 As response to intervention RTI is adopted by increasing numbers of schools and districts knowledge about what works continues to grow This much needed book analyzes the key components of RTI service delivery and identifies the characteristics of successful implementation Critically reviewing the available research leading authorities describe best practices in multi tier intervention assessment and data based decision making Clear cut recommendations are provided for implementing evidence based interventions to support students needs in reading writing math and behavior A state of the art resource for K 12 practitioners and administrators the book also will fill a unique niche in graduate level courses Advancing Quantitative Methods in Second Language Research Luke Plonsky, 2015-07-03 Advancing Quantitative Methods in Second Language Research is the first hands on guide to conducting advanced research methods in the fields of applied linguistics and second language studies While a number of texts discuss basic quantitative research methodology none focus exclusively on providing coverage of alternative advanced statistical procedures in second language studies from a practical approach The text is bookended by discussions of these advanced procedures in the larger context of second language studies debating their strengths weaknesses and potential for further research the remaining chapters are how to sections each chapter following the same organization on a wide variety of advanced research methods By offering much needed coverage on advanced statistical concepts and procedures with an eye toward real world implementation Advancing Quantitative Methods in Second Language Research enhances the methodological repertoire of graduate students and researchers in applied linguistics and second language studies For additional content visit <https://lukeplonsky.wordpress.com/aqmslr>
