*The amount of time for the research instrument, including the survey, was 100 minutes. The research was done in 2010.

There is a significant negative impact of the number of employees on the number of employees who are satisfied with the company's performance. This suggests that as the number of employees increases, the number of employees who are satisfied with the company's performance decreases. This is likely due to the fact that as the number of employees increases, the number of employees who are dissatisfied with the company's performance also increases.

Table III. The lowest eigenvalue provided for each  $\beta$  value indicates that the eigenvalue that will be used is the one that is the largest of the eigenvalues of the corresponding coefficient matrix (there is no  $\beta$  value for which the coefficient matrix is singular). The eigenvalues are all positive, and the corresponding eigenvectors,  $\mathbf{u}_i$ , are normalized to have unit length.
