Conscripts of Migration Christopher Ian Foster, 2019-08-23 In Conscripts of Migration Neoliberal Globalization Nationalism and the Literature of New African Diasporas author Christopher Ian Foster analyzes increasingly urgent questions regarding crises of global immigration by redefining migration in terms of conscription and by studying contemporary literature Reporting on immigration whether liberal or conservative popular or scholarly leaves out the history in which the Global North helped create outward migration in the Global South From histories of racial capitalism the trans Atlantic slave trade and imperialism to contemporary neoliberal globalization and the resurgence of xenophobic nationalism countries in the Global North continue to devastate and destabilize the Global South Britain France Italy and the United States in different ways police the effects of their own global policies at their borders Foster provides a substantial study of a new body of contemporary African diasporic literature called migritude literature Migritude indicates the work and ideas of a disparate yet distinct group of younger African authors born after independence in the 1960s Most often migritude authors have lived both in and outside Africa and narrate the experiences of migration under the pressures of globalization They also emphasize that immigration itself and stereotypes of the immigrant are entangled with the history of colonialism Authors like Fatou Diome Shailja Patel Abdourahman Waberi Cristina Ali Farah and others confront critical issues of migrancy diaspora departure return racism identity gender sexuality and postcoloniality

Losing the Plot Leon de Kock, 2016-09-01 In Losing the Plot well known scholar and writer Leon de Kock offers a lively and wide ranging analysis of postapartheid South African writing which he contends has morphed into a far more flexible and multifaceted entity than its predecessor If postapartheid literature's founding moment was the transition to democracy writing over the ensuing years has viewed the Mandelapark project with increasing doubt Instead authors from all quarters are seen to be reporting in different ways and from divergent points of view on what is perceived to be a pathological public sphere in which the plot the mapping and making of social betterment appears to have been lost The compulsion to detect forensically the actual causes of such loss of direction has resulted in the prominence of creative nonfiction A significant adjunct in the rise of this is the new media which sets up a wounded space within which a cult of commiseration compulsively and repeatedly plays out the facts of the day on people's screens This De Kock argues is reproduced in much postapartheid writing And although fictional forms persist in genres such as crime fiction with their tendency to overplot more serious fiction underplots yielding to the imprint of real conditions to determine the narrative construction

Reading the Fantastic Imagination Dana Percec, 2014-06-26 The purpose of Reading the Fantastic Imagination The Avatars of a Literary Genre is the observation of the very hybridity of the fantastic genre as a typical postmodern form The volume continues an older project of the editor and a large number of the contributors that of investigating the current status of several popular genres from historical fiction to romance The scrutiny continues in this third volume dedicated to the fantastic imagination and the plethora of themes moods media and formats deriving from it FanLit is surely trendy even if it is not highbrow despite its noble ancestry This apparent paradox characterizes many of the literary genres en vogue today from historical fiction to romance This very contradiction forms part of the basis for this book After the success of the previous book in the series dedicated to a borderline literary genre Romance The History of a Genre was declared by Cambridge Scholars Publishing as the Critics Choice Book of the Month in January 2013 this collection of studies about the fantastic imagination takes a further step into completing a larger research project which seeks to investigate the varieties of popular fiction Although all contributors in the series teach canonical literary texts they did not hesitate to plunge into the opposite area of fictional work and moreover continued doing so even though such a project caused the raise of a few high brows Percec 2012 232 as argued in the Endnote of Romance The History of a Genre

Natura Urbana Matthew Gandy, 2022-03-08 A study of urban nature that draws together different strands of urban ecology as well as insights derived from feminist posthuman and postcolonial thought

Postindustrial transitions and changing cultures of nature have produced an unprecedented degree of fascination with urban biodiversity The other nature that flourishes in marginal urban spaces at one remove from the controlled contours of metropolitan nature is not the poor relation of rural flora and fauna Indeed these islands of biodiversity underline the porosity of the distinction between urban and rural In Natura Urbana Matthew Gandy explores urban nature as a multilayered material and symbolic entity through the lens of urban ecology and the parallel study of diverse cultures of nature at a global scale Gandy examines the articulation of alternative and in some cases counterhegemonic sources of knowledge about urban nature produced by artists writers scientists as well as curious citizens including voices seldom heard in environmental discourse The book is driven by Gandy's fascination with spontaneous forms of urban nature ranging from postindustrial wastelands brimming with life to the return of such predators as wolves and leopards on the urban fringe Gandy develops a critical synthesis between different strands of urban ecology and considers whether urban political ecology broadly defined might be imaginatively extended to take fuller account of both the historiography of the ecological sciences and recent insights derived from feminist posthuman and postcolonial thought
