Education Sebastian Rezat, Mathias Hattermann, Andrea Peter-Koop, 2013-12-13 The diversity of research domains and theories in the field of mathematics education has been a permanent subject of discussions from the origins of the discipline up to the present On the one hand the diversity is regarded as a resource for rich scientific development on the other hand it gives rise to the often repeated criticism of the discipline s lack of focus and identity As one way of focusing on core issues of the discipline the book seeks to open up a discussion about fundamental ideas in the field of mathematics education that permeate different research domains and perspectives The book addresses transformation as one fundamental idea in mathematics education and examines it from different perspectives Transformations are related to knowledge related to signs and representations of mathematics related to concepts and ideas and related to instruments for the learning of mathematics The book seeks to answer the following questions What do we know about transformations in the different domains What kinds of transformations are crucial How is transformation in each case conceptualized Proceedings

chapter the combination of which provides the important function of offering a wider ranging discussion This book is an invaluable resource for researchers interested in second language task based research or SLA more generally Attention and Performance VI Stanislav Dornič, 2022-08-19 Originally published in 1977 this sixth volume of an international series presented new and original material in the broad area of human performance Included are the most recent findings modern methodologies and latest models and theories that indicate the trends and focus on recent points of debate Among the topics covered are reaction processes perceptual encoding selective attention visual search processing a recognition of words as well as the reading process and memory This volume will be of paramount interest to experimental psychologists from graduate students to post graduate research workers

Learning from Dynamic Visualization Richard Lowe, Rolf Ploetzner, 2017-05-18 This volume tackles issues arising from today's high reliance on learning from visualizations in general and dynamic visualizations in particular at all levels of education It reflects recent changes in educational practice through which text no longer occupies its traditionally dominant role as the prime means of presenting to be learned information to learners Specifically the book targets the dynamic visual components of multimedia educational resources and singles out how they can influence learning in their own right It aims to help bridge the increasing gap between pervasive adoption of dynamic visualizations in educational practice and our limited understanding of the role that these representations can play in learning The volume has recruited international leaders in the field to provide diverse perspectives on the dynamic visualizations and learning It is the first comprehensive book on the topic that brings together contributions from both renowned researchers and expert practitioners Rather than aiming to present a broad general overview of the field it focuses on innovative work that is at the cutting edge As well as further developing and complementing existing approaches the contributions emphasize fresh ideas that may challenge existing orthodoxies and point towards future directions for the field They seek to stimulate further new developments in the design and use of dynamic visualizations for learning as well as the rigorous systematic investigation of their educational effectiveness the volume sheds light on the complex and highly demanding processes of conceptualizing developing implementing dynamic visualizations in practice as well challenges relating research application perspectives
