Signs in the Dust Nathan Lyons, 2019-02-28 Modern thought is characterized by a dichotomy of meaningful culture and unmeaning nature Signs in the Dust uses medieval semiotics to develop a new theory of nature and culture that resists this familiar picture of things Through readings of Thomas Aquinas Nicholas of Cusa and John Poincaré John of St Thomas it offers a semiotic analysis of human culture in both its anthropological breadth as an enterprise of creaturely sign making and its theological height as a finite participation in the Trinity which can be understood as an absolute cultural nature Signs in the Dust then extends this account of human culture backwards into the natural depth of biological and physical nature It puts the biosemiotics of its medieval sources along with Félix Ravaisson's philosophy of habit into dialogue with the Extended Evolutionary Synthesis that is emerging in contemporary biology to show how all living things participate in semiosis so that that a cultural dimension is present through the whole order of nature and the whole of natural history It also retrieves Aquinas doctrine of intentions in the medium to show how signification can be attributed in a diminished way to even inanimate nature with the ontological implication that being as such should be reconceived in semiotic terms The phenomena of human culture are therefore to be understood not as breaks with a meaningless nature but instead as heightenings and deepenings of natural movements of meaning that long precede and far exceed us Against the modern divorce of nature and culture Signs in the Dust argues that culture is natural and nature is cultural through and through to the question of what constitutes a life how that life is narrated and what lives matter in autobiography studies in the Anthropocene This era is characterised by the geoengineering impact of humans which is shaping the planet s biophysical systems through the combustion of fossil fuels production of carbon unprecedented population growth and mass extinction These developments threaten the rights of humans and other than humans to just and sustainable lives In exploring ways of representing life in the Anthropocene this work articulates innovative literary forms such as ecobiography the representation of a human subject s entwinement with their environment phytography writing the lives of plants and ethological poetics the study of nonhuman poetic forms providing scholars and writers with innovative tools to think and write about our strange new world In particular its recognition on plant life reminds us of how human lives are entwined with vegetal lives The creative and critical essays in this book shaped by a number of Antipodean authors bear witness to a multitude of lives and deaths The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of a b Auto Biography Studies Nature's Fabric David Lee,2017-09-28 Leaves are all around us in backyards cascading from window boxes even emerging from small cracks in city sidewalks given the slightest glint of sunlight Perhaps because they are everywhere it s easy to overlook the humble leaf but a close look at them provides one of the most enjoyable ways to connect with the natural world A lush incredibly informative tribute to the leaf Nature s Fabric offers an introduction to the science of leaves weaving biology and chemistry with the history of the deep connection we feel with all things growing and green Leaves come in a staggering variety of textures and shapes they can be smooth or rough their edges smooth lobed or with tiny teeth They have adapted to their environments in remarkable often stunningly beautiful ways from the leaves of carnivorous plants which have tiny trigger hairs that signal the trap to close to the impressive defense strategies some leaves have evolved to reduce their consumption Recent studies suggest for example that some plants can detect chewing vibrations and mobilize potent chemical defenses In many cases we ve learned from the extraordinary adaptations of leaves such as the invention of new self cleaning surfaces inspired by the slippery coating found on leaves But we owe much more to leaves and Lee also calls our attention back to the fact that that our very lives and the lives of all on the planet depend on them Not only is foliage is the ultimate source of food for every living thing on land its capacity to cycle carbon dioxide and oxygen can be considered among evolution s most important achievements and one that is critical in mitigating global climate change Taking readers through major topics like these while not losing sight of the small wonders of nature we see every day if you d like to identify a favorite leaf Lee s glossary of leaf characteristics means you won t be left out on a limb Nature s Fabric is eminently readable and full of intriguing research sure to enhance your appreciation for these extraordinary green machines

Fellow Creatures Christine M. Korsgaard, 2018-06-18 Christine M Korsgaard presents a compelling new view of humans moral relationships to the other animals She defends the claim that we are obligated to treat all sentient beings as what Kant called ends in themselves Drawing on a theory of the good derived from Aristotle she offers an explanation of why animals are the sorts of beings for whom things can be good or bad She then turns to Kant's argument for the value of humanity to show that rationality commits us to claiming the standing of ends in ourselves in two senses Kant argued that as autonomous beings we claim to be ends in ourselves when we claim the standing to make laws for ourselves and each other Korsgaard argues that as beings who have a good we also claim to be ends in ourselves when we take the things that are good for us to be good absolutely and so worthy of pursuit The first claim commits us to joining with other autonomous beings in relations of moral reciprocity The second claim commits us to treating the good of every sentient creature as something of absolute importance Korsgaard argues that human beings are not more important than the other animals that our moral nature does not make us superior to the other animals and that our unique capacities do not make us better off than the other animals She criticizes the marginal cases argument and advances a new view of moral standing as attaching to the atemporal subjects of lives She criticizes Kant's own view that our duties to animals are indirect and offers a non utilitarian account of the relation between pleasure and the good She also addresses a number of directly practical questions whether we have the right to eat animals experiment on them make them work for us and fight in our wars and keep them as pets and how to understand the wrong that we do when we cause a species to go extinct

The Wisdom of Trees David Macauley, Laura Pustarfi, 2025-06-01 Pioneering essays that reveal the significance of new interdisciplinary understandings of trees and forests especially in terms of their philosophical and ecological dimensions and their importance for addressing the climate emergency This is the first book to apply philosophical thinking to trees Through a series of sixteen diverse essays by leading scholars and writers along with an in depth introduction to the key issues and ideas it examines the new and emerging understanding of trees in science and society Contributors show how these developments encourage a revisioning of philosophical thought and a more sustainable relationship with trees and forests a reconceptualization with important ecological and social implications for responding to deforestation the loss of biodiversity and the climate emergency The interdisciplinary contributions in this collection investigate the many interconnected dimensions of arboreality focusing on subjects related to time mind truth memory being beauty goodness silence wisdom personhood and death The volume engages in a conversation about why trees matter how they can best be protected our obligations to them and even what or who they are Most of the chapters are informed by natural history or ecological science and many share a particular emphasis on continental philosophy and the environmental humanities accelerating just as climate change is profoundly altering the conditions for growing food In the midst of this global crisis the fate of our food has slipped into a handful of the world s largest companies Food Chained will bring home what this corporate stranglehold is doing to our daily diet from the explosion of genetically modified foods to the rapid disappearance of plant varieties to the elimination of independent farmers who have long been the bedrock of our food supply Food Chained will touch many nerves for readers including concerns about climate change chronic drought in essential farm states like California the persistence of the junk food culture the proliferation of GMOs and the alarming domination of the seed market and our very life cycle by global giants like Monsanto But not all is bleak when it comes to the future of our food supply Food Chained will also present hopeful stories about farmers consumer groups and government agencies around the world that are resisting the tightening corporate squeeze on our food chain
