

FACTS ABOUT YOUR WINCHESTER MODEL 100

The ingenious gas system which is the heart of your Winchester Model 100 uses just enough gas pressure to operate the mechanism smoothly and efficiently — always just the right amount, never too little — never too much. As a result you'll discover a pleasant reduction in recoil and extremely long life for all working parts.

Here's a rifle designed for hunting the world over . . . from the frozen Arctic to tropical jungles. For handling ease, shooting and carrying comfort, and rugged dependability, you'll find it an ideal hunting companion during a life-time of shooting pleasure.

Before Sighting-in Your Model 100 Please Read This

Your Model 100 is designed to fire five* shots as fast as you can pull the trigger. However, it cannot be fired fully automatic. Succeeding shots are only possible after the trigger is released and the operational cycle completed by the bolt moving forward and engaging the front locking lugs. The trigger must then be pulled again for the next shot. The full operating cycle takes only .07 seconds, and at such speeds, if the rifle is not held correctly, a shooter may experience what he believes is "Doubling" — actually he is pulling the trigger twice, the second time unconsciously. This situation may occur particularly during sighting-in, while firing from a bench rest.

To avoid this bounce back against the trigger finger, simply hold the pistol grip firmly. The trigger hand will then ride with the gun on the recoil and no further difficulty will be experienced.

*Capacity — 244 Winchester, 5 shots.

Be sure to remove all grease from barrel, chamber and mechanism before firing.
