Generation Multiplex Timothy Shary,2014-03-07 Generation Multiplex 2002 was the first comprehensive study of the representation of teenagers in American cinema since David Considine s Cinema of Adolescence in 1985 This updated and expanded edition reaffirms the idea that films about youth constitute a legitimate genre worthy of study on its own terms Identifying four distinct subgenres school delinquency horror and romance Timothy Shary explores hundreds of representative films while offering in depth discussion of movies that constitute key moments in the genre including Fast Times at Ridgemoor High A Nightmare on Elm Street The Breakfast Club Say Anything Boyz n the Hood Scream American Pie Napoleon Dynamite Superbad The Twilight Saga and The Hunger Games Analyzing developments in teen films since 2002 Shary covers such topics as the increasing availability of movies on demand which has given teens greater access to both popular and lesser seen films the recent dominance of supernatural and fantasy films as a category within the genre and how the ongoing commodification of teen images in media affects real life issues such as school bullying athletic development sexual identity and teenage pregnancy Artificial Culture Tama Leaver,2011-12-22 Artificial Culture is an examination of the articulation construction and representation of the artificial in contemporary popular cultural texts especially science fiction films and novels The book argues that today we live in an artificial culture due to the deep and inextricable relationship between people our bodies and technology at large While the artificial is often imagined as outside of the natural order and thus also beyond the realm of humanity paradoxically artificial concepts are simultaneously produced and constructed by human ideas and labor The artificial can thus act as a boundary point against which we as a culture can measure what it means to be human Science fiction feature films and novels and other related media frequently and provocatively deploy ideas of the artificial in ways which the lines between people our bodies spaces and culture more broadly blur and at times dissolve Building on the rich foundational work on the figures of the cyborg and posthuman this book situates the artificial in similar terms but from a nevertheless distinctly different viewpoint After examining ideas of the artificial as deployed in film novels and other digital contexts this study concludes that we are now part of an artificial culture entailing a matrix which rather than separating minds and bodies or humanity and the digital reinforces the symbiotic connection between identities bodies and technologies

Why theory? Edward Tomarken, 2017-06-17 Edward Tomarken's previous book Filmspeak was a study of literary theory in relation to contemporary mainstream films Some of the abstruse ideas of early literary theorists 1950-70 had in fact permeated our thinking to such an extent that both films and theories enriched and shed light upon one another One early response to Filmspeak was the question Why theory a remark that provides the title of this new and exciting exploration of literature In pursuit of an answer Tomarken turns to the second generation of critics 1970-2000 and analyses television programmes as well as films He considers scholars such as Clifford Geertz and Martha Nussbaum who saw themselves as working in the field of cultural studies Why theory thus has a dual focus on both culture and literary theory The result of integrating cultural ideas with media interpretation sees Tomarken grapple with the question of the title theory has become a part of our cultural life
