

3. Marking points

3.1 Marking of lists

This applies to questions requiring a set number of responses, but for which students have provided extra responses. The general principle to be followed in such a situation is that 'right + wrong = wrong'.

Each error / contradiction negates each correct response. So, if the number of errors / contradictions equals or exceeds the number of marks available for the question, no marks can be awarded.

However, responses considered to be neutral (indicated as * in example 1) are not penalised.

Example 1: What is the pH of an acidic solution?

[1 mark]

Student	Response	Marks awarded
1	green, 5	0
2	red*, 5	1
3	red*, 8	0

Example 2: Name two magnetic materials.

[2 marks]

Student	Response	Marks awarded
1	iron, steel, aluminium, copper	0

3.2 Marking of questions requiring a list

For questions requiring a specified number of responses (maximum of 10 responses), students may provide more than the specified number of responses. In such cases, the question should be marked as follows: each correct response is awarded 1 mark.

3.3 Marking questions requiring a calculation

When a question requires a calculation, the mark scheme should specify the number of marks available for the calculation. Students may provide more than the specified number of responses. In such cases, the question should be marked as follows: each correct response is awarded 1 mark.

Each correct response is awarded 1 mark, and each incorrect response is awarded 0 marks.

3.4 Interpretation of 'or'

When a question requires a calculation, the mark scheme should specify the number of marks available for the calculation. Students may provide more than the specified number of responses.
