It is possible to construct an algorithm which assigns a unique number to each element of the set S and which is invariant under the action of the group G . This is the case if and only if the action of G on S is free and transitive. In this case, the set S is isomorphic to the quotient space G/H , where H is the stabilizer of a point in S . The algorithm is then defined by mapping each element of S to its corresponding coset in G/H .
