Support for Cooperative Applications Rolf A. de by, Wolfgang Klas, J. Veijalainen, 2012-12-06 Transaction Management Support for Cooperative Application is a comprehensive report on a successful international project called TRANSCOOP carried out from 1994 to 1997 by a group of European scientists But the book is also much more than that namely an ambitious attempt to integrate Computer Supported Cooperative Work CSCW Workflow Management Systems WFMS and Transaction Processing TP technologies The very term em cooperative transactions is in itself contradictory Cooperation technologies such as CSCW aim at providing a framework for information exchange between cooperating human participants In contrast traditional transaction technologies allow concurrent users to operate on shared data while providing them with the illusion of complete isolation from each other To overcome this contradiction the TRANSCOOP researchers had to come up with a new and original notion of correctness of concurrent executions based on controlled exchange of information between concurrent users Merging histories in accordance with prespecified commutativity rules among concurrent operations provides transactional guarantees to activities such as cooperative designing which until now had to be carried out sequentially As an interesting consequence it also provides a basis for management of consistency between disconnected or mobile users who operate independently and yet must occasionally reconcile their work with each other

Diversity in Deaf Education Marc Marschark, Venetta Lampropoulou, Emmanouil K. Skordilis, 2016-05-31 Deaf children are not hearing children who can t hear Beyond any specific effects of hearing loss as a group they are far more diverse than hearing peers Lack of full access to language incidental learning and social interactions as well as the possibility of secondary disabilities means that deaf learners face a variety of challenges in academic domains Technological innovations such as digital hearing aids and cochlear implants have improved hearing and the possibility of spoken language for many deaf learners but parents teachers and other professionals are just now coming to recognize that there are cognitive experiential and social emotional differences between deaf and hearing students likely to affect academic outcomes Sign languages and schools and programs for deaf learners thus remain an important part of the continuum of services needed for this diverse population Understanding such diversity and determining ways in which to accommodate them must become a top priority in educating deaf learners Through the participation of an international interdisciplinary set of scholars Diversity in Deaf Education takes a broad view of learning and academic progress considering the whole child in the context of the families languages educational settings in which they are immersed In adopting this perspective the complexities and commonalities in the social emotional cognitive and linguistic mosaic of which the deaf child is a part are captured It is only through such a holistic consideration of diverse children developing within diverse settings that we can understand their academic potentials
