Florence Nightingale was a woman ahead of her time. Before the nineteenth century, the profession of nursing was largely untrained. Midwives were the only practitioners who had any training at all. For the most part, sick people were looked after by the women of the house in their own homes.

- 5 Florence Nightingale began a school in London, England to set the standards for nursing. She was able to do this because she had already established a reputation for her work with soldiers during the Crimean War. She carried a lamp above her head as she walked among the wounded men, thereby earning the nickname “the lady with the lamp.” It was this great lady who lit the way for nursing to become the respected profession it is today.

 - (A) the impact of nursing on the soldiers of the Crimean War

 - (B) anthology of short biographies of famous women
 - (C) history of nineteenth-century England
 - (D) textbook on medicine

 - (B) her family was willing to finance her work
 - (C) she had gained notoriety as a difficult woman to challenge
 - (D) she had cared for many wealthy sick people herself
 - (E) she worked endless hours every night

 - (A) prior to Florence Nightingale, only midwives were trained
 - (B) Florence Nightingale raised the standards of their profession
 - (C) they are well-respected professionals today
 - (D) they are exceedingly well paid for their work
