Nancy Rankie Shelton,Bess Altwerger,2014-12-05 Current U S school reform efforts link school success student achievement and teacher performance to standardized tests and narrowly prescribed curricula How do test driven mandated curricula in urban school systems overtly and subtly impact teachers efforts to provide technologically advanced challenging classroom environments that foster literacy development for all students How do these federal policies affect instruction at the classroom level The premise of this book is that in order for teachers to confront and or counteract the pressures placed on them from these policies it is necessary to first understand them This book takes a close look at the tensions that exist between federal mandates and contemporary literacy needs and how those tensions impact classroom practices Providing a clear sociopolitical overview and analysis it combines theoretical explanations with examples from current ethnographic research Readers are challenged to re consider whether meeting test performance benchmarks should be the hallmark of school success when the goal of test performance supersedes the goal of producing highly literate productive citizens of the future The Power of Video Studies in Investigating Teaching and Learning in the Classroom Tomáš Janík,Tina Seidel,2009 The history of methods of observation illustrates a gradual development from lay observation to systematic scientific observation Over the past centuries observing scientists have learned to take advantage of various research tools Just as natural scientists came to appreciate the aid of the microscope to observe very small objects and telescopes to observe very distant objects we have come to see video technology as a tool for social scientists to observe phenomena that are too complex to be studied by the naked eye The investigative potential of such video studies lies in the fact that complex phenomena and events captured on video are available for analysis that can focus ex post facto on various aspects of the material under investigation Video study is a complex methodological approach which enables the employing of various strategies methods or techniques for generating collecting and analysing video data i e audiovisual data grounded in rich situational contexts The book is structured in three sections which comprise chapters that focus on a specific power of video technology in classroom research The chapters in section I focus on the power of video to describe the dynamics of teaching and learning in the classroom They present various video studies conducted in the past fifteen years that aimed to describe the practices of teaching The chapters in section II focus on the use of video in investigating the effects of teaching on student learning They present approaches that build on video studies in order to link data about classroom processes with data about learning outcomes The chapters in section III discuss possibilities offered by the use of video in professional development of teachers Contributors Peter Reggie Bowman Geraldine Blomberg Hilda Borko David Clarke Inger Marie Dalehefte Erin Marie Furtak Constanze Herweg Dana H.
