

25th Anniversary Event Welcoming Remarks

Good Afternoon everyone. I am Mohan Ramamurthy and I am Director of Unidata.

It is my distinct honor and high privilege to welcome you all to this 25th Anniversary event to celebrate an important milestone in Unidata's history.

I want thank you all for taking the time from your busy schedules (or retired life!) to join us for this occasion. It is so wonderful to see and be in the company of so many friends, colleagues, and the wise sages of the atmospheric science community.

We have planned an exciting program for you that includes reminiscences from founding fathers, early community activists, our sponsors, our partners in agencies and academia, and the leadership in UCAR and NCAR, along with reflections on what the community created a quarter of a century ago and what Unidata means to many of you.

Some of you know that I am fond of borrowing a phrase from Abraham Lincoln's historic Gettysburg address but applied in the Unidata context: Unidata, a program of the community, by the community, and for the community. Over the next two days you will come to understand and appreciate what I mean.

With all humility I would like to add that, what started as a modest project by a cadre of visionary academics, which they called the University Data Project, or Unidata for short, has today become a quintessential facility for the atmospheric and related sciences, one that embodies the community spirit and ownership in its purest form.

New Worlds of Work Ulrich Jürgens,Martin Krzywdzinski,2016-04-15 New industrial centres are emerging in the so called BRIC countries Brazil Russia India and China where large numbers of plants have been constructed in recent years creating many manufacturing jobs But what does industrial work look like in these locations Up until now much of the interest in developing country industrialization has concentrated on the poor working conditions that characterize some export oriented sectors in emerging economies most notoriously in the garment industry In contrast the concern of this book is with the modern facilities of multinational or local manufacturers that reflect aspirations for a process of industrial upgrading that might foreshadow the future for these countries The book provides an analysis of work its context and the situation of employees in plants in the BRICs focussing on three main questions What differences and common features can be ascertained in a comparison both of countries and firms in terms of workplace HR management and production systems What evidence is there for either a high road or low road developmental path in the BRICs How are corporate standards implemented in these local contexts The book addresses an academic audience as well as managers and trade unionists For the former it offers a systematic comparison of the four countries and the companies under study For the latter it offers a vivid account of challenges the companies face in the BRIC countries as well as the solutions adopted by the companies
