How to Read: The average value of an investment is 12 percent. That means that those people who are offered to buy shares of this stock, on average, will earn 12 percent more than if they had not bought the stock. The average value of an investment is not the same as the average return. The average return is the average of the returns of all the investments. The average value of an investment is the average of the values of all the investments.

Keywords: "Responsible" (as a concept, intended to be a neutral label); "I am not." This label is used to describe the unwillingness to acknowledge or accept any degree of culpability. It is frequently used to describe a person who is in the midst of a crisis, placed in this state by the system. The unwillingness to acknowledge culpability is the sign of the unwillingness to accept the responsibility for the situation.
