Religion and Development in the Asia-Pacific Matthew Clarke, Anna Halafoff, 2016-08-25 Community development is most effective and efficient when it is situated and led at the local level and considers the social behaviours needs and worldviews of local communities With more than eight out of ten people globally self reporting religious belief Religion and Development in the Asia Pacific Sacred places as development spaces argues that the role and impact of religions on community development needs to be better understood. It also calls for greater attention to be given to the role of sacred places as sites for development activities and for a deeper appreciation of the way in which sacred stories and teachings inspire people to work for the benefit of others in particular locations. The book considers theories of place as a component of successful development interventions and expands this analysis to consider the specific role that sacred places, buildings and social networks have in planning, implementing and promoting sustainable development. A series of case studies examine various sacred places as sites for development activities. These case studies include Christian churches and disaster relief in Vanuatu; Muslim shrines and welfare provision in Pakistan; a women's Buddhist monastery in Thailand; advancing gender equity; a Jewish aid organisation providing language training to Muslim Women in Australia; and Hawaiian sacred sites located within a holistic retreat centre committed to ecological sustainability. Religion and Development in the Asia Pacific demonstrates the important role that sacred spaces can play in development interventions covering diverse major world religions, interfaith and spiritual contexts, and as such will be of considerable interest for postgraduate students and researchers in development studies, religious studies, sociology of religion and geography. Religious Diversity in Europe Riho Altnurme, Elena Arigita, Patrick Pasture, 2022-03-10. Drawing on research funded by the European Commission, this book explores how religious diversity has been and continues to be represented in cultural contexts in Western Europe, particularly to teenagers in textbooks, museums and exhibitions, popular youth culture including TV and online, as well as in political speech. Topics include the findings from focus group interviews with teenagers in schools across Europe, the representation of minority religions in museums, migration and youth subculture. The Routledge Handbook of Religions and Global Development Emma Tomalin, 2015-02-11. This Handbook provides a cutting edge survey of the state of research on religions and global development. Part one highlights critical debates that have emerged within research on religions and development, particularly with respect to theoretical, conceptual and methodological considerations from the perspective of development studies and its associated disciplines. Parts two to six look at different regional and national development contexts and the place of religion within these. These parts integrate and examine the critical debates raised in part one within empirical case studies from a range of religions and regions. Different religions are situated within actual locations and case studies, thus allowing a detailed and contextual understanding of their relationships to development to emerge. Part seven examines the links between some important areas within development policy and practice where religion is now being considered, including Faith Based Organisations and Development, Public Health, Religion and Development, Human rights, Religion and Development, Sustainable Development, Climate Change and Religion, Global Institutions and Religious Engagement in Development, Economic Development and Religion, Religion Development and Fragile States, Development and Faith Based Education. Taking a global approach, the Handbook covers Africa, Latin America, South Asia, East and South East Asia, and the Middle East. It is essential reading for students and researchers in development studies and religious studies and is highly
