

Upon the onset of war, Benjamin's hands are tied and he half-heartedly allows Benjamin to join the war. The Crown's army is far superior in terms of armory and the soldiers clearly outnumber the Continentals. All around there are remnants of destroyed property and hanging corpses of civilians in areas conquered by England. Any sane person can establish that America will lose and wise people like Benjamin attest that, the war was won before it began. The family is deeply disheveled as they worry about Gabriel.

Gabriel's return from war forms a most profound scene and it is also the film's turning point. Needless to say, the events that unfold change the cause of America. Gabriel is wounded and a sad Benjamin caters to his son. To add salt to injury, the family witnesses a battle between the British and Americans. As expected, the British effortlessly triumph over the Americans. Benjamin is a kind man and he nurses and allows wounded soldiers of the British army to recuperate in his house. When the head of the British regiment, William Tavington makes a call to the house to appreciate Benjamin's generosity, an incriminating letter is confiscated from Gabriel by the British. Gabriel is mercilessly sentenced to hang for treason by the ruthless colonel despite Benjamin's pleading. In the midst of this mayhem, his younger brother Thomas intervenes in an attempt to save his brother. Colonel Tavington does not hesitate and he shoots Thomas. The image of a helpless Benjamin clutching onto his dead son will be permanently etched in my mind. His pitiful face was so startling and I deeply empathized with him. This state of grief is representative of what Americans felt during the revolutionary war as they helplessly experienced the demise of their loved ones. The death of his son was so devastating, and in response, a warring spirit was stirred up in Benjamin. The once passive Benjamin resolved to take an active role in the revolutionary war, more so to avenge the death of his son.
