Winning Matters Formidable Fighter 4:

Winning Matters Martina Sprague, 2015-01-12 The martial arts have a two fold agenda To prepare you to participate in tournaments or sports and to prepare you to participate in real life scenarios This split focus might be the prime element that distinguishes the martial artist from other sports participants who are preparing to run a marathon go to the Olympics or win a hockey match but are not concerned with issues of life and death So to those who say that winning and losing don't matter that your only competitor is yourself and that you should strive to be the best that you can be I say Baloney In struggles of life and death winning matters Winning is good for the spirit even in martial arts simulations not involving life and death In competition too winning matters A central theme of martial arts training is resolve the spirit to win which must shine not only in the real battle competition belt promotion demonstration or teaching endeavor but in all the training that prepares you for this test The techniques you learn are your backbone your foundation for building greater skills Your effectiveness is measured through a combination of theoretical knowledge of technique and ability to use these techniques Formidable Fighter The Complete Series a compilation of all 14 books in this series is available in both electronic and print format

Winning the Big Ones: How Teams Capture Large Contracts Michael O'Guin, Kim Kelly, 2012 The authors using the techniques in Winning the Big Ones have helped their clients win over 286 Billion in contract awards with an 86%% win rate This book describes how capture teams pursue and win large contracts Learn how top performing capture teams pursue and win large contracts Structure your business acquisition process like the top performers Select the best few opportunities Develop a win strategy that differentiates your solution on those attributes most important to the customer Establish the Price to Win to bid the highest price possible and win Collect intelligence and conduct competitive analysis Influence the customer to shape the acquisition to improve your position Pre sell your solution Organize and staff the capture team Craft persuasive win themes and proofs of benefits Close the sale with effective negotiation strategies All of these techniques are illustrated with a hundreds of real world examples
