One of the main tasks of hospital pharmacies was the manufacturing of child-appropriate formulations in a more or less makeshift way. The first change came in 1997 with U.S. legislation that rewarded manufacturers to do voluntary pediatric research. Ten years later the European Union passed legislation that required manufacturers to discuss all pediatric aspects, including formulations, with the regulatory authorities as a condition of starting the registration procedure. In consequence, manufacturers must now cover all age groups, including the youngest ones. So far, pediatric formulations were more a focus for academic researchers. Through the changed regulatory environment, there is now a sudden high commercial demand for age-appropriate formulations. This book begins by highlighting the anatomical, physiological, and developmental differences between adults and children of different ages. It goes on to review the existing technologies and attempts to draw a roadmap to better innovative formulations, in particular for oral administration. The regulatory, clinical, ethical, and pharmaceutical framework is also addressed. Black Professional Women in Recent American Fiction Carmen Rose Marshall, 2015-01-24 The last three decades of the 20th century have marked the triumph of many black professional women against great odds in the workplace. Despite their success, few novels celebrate their accomplishments. Black middle-class professional women want to see themselves realistically portrayed by protagonists who work to achieve significant productivity and visibility in their careers, desire stability in their personal lives, aspire to accrue wealth, and live elegantly though not consumptively. The author contends that most recent American realistic fiction fails to represent black professional women, protagonists performing their work effectively in the workplace Identifying the extent to which contemporary novels satisfy the readerly desires of black middle class women readers this book investigates why the readership wants the texts as well as what they prefer in the books they buy It also examines the technical and cultural factors that contribute to the lack of books with self empowered black professional female protagonists and considers The Salt Eaters by Toni Cade Bambara and Waiting to Exhale by Terry McMillan two novels that function as significant markers in the development of contemporary black women writers texts

Novels and the Sociology of the Contemporary Arpad Szokolczai, 2016-04-14 This book substantiates two claims First the modern world was not simply produced by objective factors rooted in geographical discoveries and scientific inventions to be traced to economic technological or political factors but is the outcome of social cultural and spiritual processes Among such factors beyond the Protestant ethic Max Weber the rise of the absolutist state and its disciplinary network Michel Foucault or court society Norbert Elias a prime role is played by theatre The modern reality is deeply theatricalized Second a special access for studying this theatricalized world is offered by novels The best classical novels not simply can be interpreted as describing a world like the theatre but they capture and present a world that has become thoroughly transformed into a global theatre The theatre effectively transformed the world and classical novels effectively analyze this theatricalized reality much better than the main instruments supposedly destined to study reality philosophy and sociology Thus instead of using the technique of sociology to analyze novels the book will treat novels as a royal road to analyze a theatricalized reality in order to find our way back to a genuine and meaningful life

Narrative Hospitality in Late Victorian Fiction Rachel Hollander, 2013 Bringing together poststructuralist ethical theory with late

Victorian debates about the morality of literature this book reconsiders the ways in which novels engender an ethical orientation or response in their readers explaining how the intersections of nation family and form in the late realist English novel produce a new ethics of hospitality Hollander reads texts that both portray and enact a unique ethical orientation of welcoming the other a narrative hospitality that combines the Victorians commitment to engaging with the real world with a more modern awareness of difference and the limits of knowledge While classic nineteenth century realism rests on a sympathy based model of moral relations novels by authors such as George Eliot Thomas Hardy and Olive Schreiner present instead an ethical recognition of the distance between self and other Opening themselves to the other in their very structure and narrative form the visited texts both represent and theorize the ethics of hospitality anticipating twentieth century philosophy s recognition of the limits of sympathy As colonial conflicts nationalist anxiety and the intensification of the woman question became dominant cultural concerns in the 1870s and 80s the problem of self and other known and unknown began to saturate and define the representation of home in the English novel This book argues that in the wake of an erosion of confidence in the ability to understand that which is unlike the self a moral code founded on sympathy gave way to an ethics of hospitality in which the concept of home shifts to acknowledge the permeability and vulnerability of not only domestic but also national spaces Concluding with Virginia Woolf s reexamination of the novel s potential to educate the reader in negotiating relations of alterity in a more fully modernist moment Hollanders suggest that the late Victorian novel embodies a unique and previously unrecognized ethical mode between Victorian realism and a post World War I ethics of modernist form

Romancing God Lynn S. Neal, 2006 In the world of the evangelical romance novel sex and desire are mitigated by an omnipresent third party the divine Thus romance is not just an encounter between lovers but a triangle of affection man woman and God Although this literature is often

J.M. Coetzee and the Limits of Cosmopolitanism K. Intelligence of Apes and Other Rational Beings Duane M. Rumbaugh, David A. Washburn, 2008-10-01 What is animal intelligence In what ways is it similar to human intelligence Many behavioral scientists have realized that animals can be rational can think in abstract symbols can understand and react to human speech and can learn through observation as well as conditioning many of the more complicated skills of life Now Duane Rumbaugh and David Washburn probe the mysteries of the animal mind even further identifying an advanced level of animal behavior emergents that reflects animals natural and active inclination to make sense of the world Rumbaugh and Washburn unify all behavior into a framework they call Rational Behaviorism and present it as a new way to understand learning intelligence and rational behavior in both animals and humans Drawing on years of research on issues of complex learning and intelligence in primates notably rhesus monkeys chimpanzees and bonobos Rumbaugh and Washburn provide delightful examples of animal ingenuity and persistence showing that animals are capable of very creative solutions to novel challenges The authors analyze learning processes and research methods discuss the meaningful differences across the primate order and point the way to further advances enlivening theoretical material about primates with stories about their behavior and achievements The Publishers Weekly, 1892 Border Crossing Alexander Burry, 2016-04-08 Each time a border is crossed there are cultural political and social issues to be considered Applying the metaphor of the border crossing from one temporal or spatial territory into another Border Crossing Russian Literature into Film examines the way classic Russian texts have been altered to suit new cinematic environments In these essays international scholars examine how political and economic circumstances from a shifting Soviet political landscape to the perceived demands of American and European markets have played a crucial role in dictating how filmmakers transpose their cinematic hypertext into a new environment Rather than focus on the degree of accuracy or fidelity with which these films address their originating texts this innovative collection explores the role of ideological political and other cultural pressures that can affect the transformation of literary narratives into cinematic offerings Hidden in Plain View Gary Saul Morson, 1987 For decades the formal peculiarities of War and Peace disturbed Russian and Western critics who attributed both the anomalous structure and the literary power of the book to Tolstoy's primitive unruly genius Using that critical history as a starting point this volume recaptures the overwhelming sense of strangeness felt by the work's first readers and thereby illuminates Tolstoy's theoretical and narratological concerns The author demonstrates that the formal peculiarities of War and Peace were deliberate designed to elude what Tolstoy regarded as the falsifying constraints of all narratives both novelistic and historical Developing and challenging the ideas of Mikhail Bakhtin Morson explores Tolstoy's account of the work's composition in light of various myths of the creative process He proposes a theory of creation by potential that incorporates Tolstoy's main concerns the openness of each historical moment the role of chance in history and within narrative patterns and the efficacy of ordinary events hidden in plain view in shaping history and individual psychology In his reading of Tolstoy he demonstrates how we read literary works within the penumbral text of associated theories of creativity
