Effects and Implications of Pragmatic Competence for Enhancing EFL University Students' Written Performance Barham Sattar Abdulrahman, 2012-12-11. The book Effects and Implications of Pragmatic Competence for Enhancing EFL University Students' Written Performance highlights the effects and implications of the Kurd EFL students' lack of pragmatic competence on their written performance. It includes the written performance of the students at the recognition level and the production level and relies on the results achieved from its instruments: the students' test, the students' questionnaire, and the lecturers' questionnaire. Depending on the results obtained from the tools, the study tries to identify and find out the sources of errors in the written performance of the Kurd EFL university students. The book hypothesizes that the inadequacy of the students' written performance could be attributed to the curricula and/or the students' dependence on the grammatical aspects of the foreign language, neglecting the pragmatic and the socio-cultural dimensions. This gives turn to state that the students' written performance is better at the recognition level than the production due to the negative interference of their mother tongue. The book concludes that Kurd EFL learners at the university level face serious difficulties when writing in English. The inappropriateness of their written performance can be attributed to the negative effects of their first language, lack of contact with English native speakers and culture, as well as the limited opportunities to have been in English speaking communities. Therefore, for enhancing EFL university students' written performance, it is recommended that they should be introduced to the English culture through adding pragmatics and English Culture as two separate subject matters to the curricula and to arrange summer courses for the students in English speaking countries, UK and US in particular.

Human Factors in Simple and Complex Systems

Robert W. Proctor, Trisha Van Zandt, 2018-01-02. Recently there have been a number of advances in technology including in mobile devices, globalization of companies, display technologies, and healthcare, all of which require significant input and evaluation from human factors specialists. Accordingly, this textbook has been completely updated with some chapters folded into other chapters and new chapters added where needed. The text continues to fill the need for a textbook that bridges the gap between the conceptual and empirical foundations of the field.
