The Boarding School Bison Drive Site:

Survival by Hunting George Frison, 2004-08-11 The North American Great Plains and Rocky Mountains have yielded many artifacts and other clues about the prehistoric people who once lived there but little is understood about the hunting practices that ensured their survival for thousands of years. Noted archaeologist George Frison brings a lifetime of experience as a hunter rancher and guide to bear on excavation data from the region relating to hunting illuminating prehistoric hunting practices in entirely new ways. Sharing his intimate knowledge of animal habitats and behavior and his familiarity with hunting strategies and techniques Frison argues that this kind of firsthand knowledge is crucial for understanding hunting in the past.

Geocology of the Marias River Canyon, Montana, USA James G. Schmitt, John W. Fisher Jr., Michael P. Neeley, David F. Pac, Frankie D. Jackson, Scott J. Patterson, Jennifer L. Aschoff, Stuart Challender, 2017-03-16 The Marias River canyon in north central Montana served during late Holocene time as a locus of human activity in an ecologically and geologically dynamic landscape. This volume presents the results of interdisciplinary research synergistically combining geologic, ecologic and archaeologic approaches focused on examining the ways that Late Precontact peoples depended upon the animal bison and plant resources of a changing landscape subject to erosion and sediment transport as dominant surficial processes. Connections between erosion and deposition, plant community distribution, large mammal niches and native peoples place in the Marias River canyon geoecosystem as well as the role of tributary junction alluvial fans as repositories of archaeological materials and vertebrate faunal remains are emphasized.

Gender and Hide Production Lisa Frink, Kathryn Weedman, 2006-03-23 Hide production is one of the oldest crafts known to humans. Yet this is the first volume to critically explore the gendered nature of this universal activity amongst hunters/gatherers for its meaning in craft production, status, identity and cultural change. Using ethnoarchaeological and archaeological examples from North America and Africa, the authors provide new insights of the gendered nature of human behavior.

Bison and People on the North American Great Plains Geoff Cunfer, Bill Waiser, 2016-10-04 The near disappearance of the American bison in the nineteenth century is commonly understood to be the result of over hunting, capitalist greed and all but genocidal military policy. This interpretation remains seductive because of its simplicity; there are villains and victims in this familiar cautionary tale of the American frontier But as this volume of groundbreaking scholarship shows the story of the bison's demise is actually quite nuanced Bison and People on the North American Great Plains brings together voices from several disciplines to offer new insights on the relationship between humans and animals that approached extinction The essays here transcend the border between the United States and Canada to provide a continental context Contributors include historians archaeologists anthropologists paleontologists and Native American perspectives This book explores the deep past and examines the latest knowledge on bison anatomy and physiology how bison responded to climate change especially drought and early bison hunters and pre contact trade It also focuses on the era of European contact in particular the arrival of the horse and some of the first known instances of over hunting By the nineteenth century bison reached a tipping point as a result of new tanning practices an early attempt at protective legislation and ventures to introducing cattle as a replacement stock The book concludes with a Lakota perspective featuring new ethnohistorical research Bison and People on the North American Great Plains is a major contribution to environmental history western history and the growing field of transnational history

The Archaeology of Large-Scale Manipulation of Prey Kristen A. Carlson, Leland C. Bement, 2018-05-30 The Archaeology of Large Scale Manipulation of Prey explores the social and functional aspects of large scale hunting adaptations in the archaeological record Mass kill hunting strategies are ubiquitous in human prehistory and exhibit culturally specific economic social environmental and demographic markers Here seven case studies primarily from the Americas and spanning from the Folsom period on the Great Plains to the ethnographic present in Australia expand the understanding of large scale hunting methods beyond the customary role of subsistence and survival to include the social and political realms within which large scale hunting adaptations evolved Addressing a diverse assortment of archaeological issues relating to the archaeological signatures and interpretation of mass kill sites The Archaeology of Large Scale Manipulation of Prey reevaluates and rephrases the deep time development of hunting and the themes of subsistence to provide a foundation for the future study of hunting adaptations around the globe Authors illustrate various perspectives and avenues of investigation making this an important contribution to the field of zooarchaeology and the study of hunter gatherer societies throughout history The book will appeal to archaeologists ethnologists and ecologists alike Contributors Jane Balme Jonathan Driver Adam C Graves David Maxwell Ulla Odgaard John D Speth Mar a Nieves Zede o

Hunters of the Recent Past Leslie B. Davis, Brian O.K. Reeves, 2014-10-30 One of a series of more than 20 volumes resulting from the World Archaeological Congress September 1986 which brought together archaeologists and anthropologists from many parts of the world academics from contingent disciplines and non academics from a wide range of cultural backgrounds This book considers prehistoric and more recent manifestations of human hunting behaviour with a general emphasis on communal hunting It demonstrates that the combination of archaeological ethnographic and ethnohistorical approaches provides a researched basis for consideration of the topic on worldwide regional and local scales It includes theoretical and methodological issues within a context of enquiry original data presentation and discussion It is of interest to archaeologists anthropologists and ethnohistorians Murray Springs C. Vance Haynes, Bruce B.

Huckell, 2022-04-05 The Murray Springs Site in the upper San Pedro River Valley of southeast Arizona is one of the most significant Clovis sites ever found It contained a multiple bison kill a mammoth kill and possibly a horse kill in a deeply stratified sedimentary context Scattered across the buried occupation surface with the bones of late Pleistocene animals were several thousand stone tools and waste flakes from their manufacture and repair Because of the unique occurrence of an algal black mat that buried the Clovis age surface immediately after abandonment the distributional integrity of the artifacts and debitage clusters is exceptional for Paleoindian sites Excavation of the Clovis hunters camp 50 to 150 meters south of the kills revealed artifactual evidence typical of hunting camp activity including hide working and weapons repair

Impact flakes conjoining with Clovis points clearly tied the camp to the bison kill The unique nature of the site and this comprehensive study of the excavated material constitute one of the most important contributions to our knowledge of Paleoindian hunters in the New World Human Ecology of the Canadian Prairie Ecozone B. A. Nicholson,2011 The Canadian Prairie Ecozone CPE is spatially defined by the foothills of Alberta on the west and the boreal forest parkland interface on the north and the east As members of the multidisciplinary SCAPE Study of Cultural Adaptations in the Canadian Prairie Ecozone Project the authors have synthesized a comprehensive account of the successive cultural lifeways and social practices of precontact groups that have succeeded one another over time and space in this region over the past 11 000 years

Archaeologies of Listening Peter R. Schmidt,Alice B. Kehoe,2019-04-26 Archaeologists tend to rely on scientific methods to reconstruct past histories an approach that can alienate local indigenous populations and limit the potential of archaeological research Essays in this volume argue that listening to and learning from local and descendant communities is vital for interpreting the histories and heritage values of archaeological sites Case studies from around the world demonstrate how a humanistic perspective with people centric practice decolonizes the discipline by unlocking an intellectual space and collaborative role for indigenous people These examples show how listening to oral traditions has opened up broader understandings of ancient rituals in Tanzania where indigenous knowledge paved the way to significant archaeological finds about local iron technology Archaeologists working with owners of traditional food ovens in Northern Australia discovered the function of mysterious earth mounds nearby and the involvement of local communities in the interpretation of the Sigiriya World Heritage Site in Sri Lanka led to a better understanding of indigenous values The ethical implications for positioning archaeology as a way to bridge divisions are also explored In a case study from Northern Ireland researchers risked sparking further conflict by listening to competing narratives about the country s political past and a study of archival records from nineteenth century grave excavations in British Columbia where remains were taken without local permission reveals why indigenous people in the region still regard archaeology with deep suspicion The value of cultural apprenticeship to those who have long term relationships with the landscape is nearly forgotten today contributors argue This volume points the way to a reawakening of the core principles of anthropology in archaeology and heritage studies Contributors Peter Schmidt Alice Kehoe Kathryn Weedman Arthur Catherine Carlson Billy Foghl Audrey Horning Steve Mrozowski George Nicholas Innocent Pikirayi Jonathan Walz Camina Weasel Moccasin Jagath Weerasinghe
