off he was than his companions in not having to learn all sorts of tiresome things To be sure he was now and then called away from his play to receive some simple teaching from his father but it was little indeed that the good man knew and the boy was soon free to roam into the country and watch the birds flying and the flowers growing Luckily John was not a stupid child he used his eyes and ears and picked up one way and another a surprising deal of knowledge and his parents took care that he went regularly to church Things went on in this manner till John was nine and then one day a knock was heard at the house door and he was bidden by his mother to open it A priest was standing there well there was nothing very unusual in that and the boy little guessed that his whole future depended on whether his mother would grant the traveller s prayer for food and shelter or whether she would bid him seek them elsewhere But the moment she knew that it was a priest who was asking hospitality John s mother left the soup she was stirring and hurried to give him welcome Come in come in she said It is little enough we have but gladly will we share it with you And the priest entered the house and seemed in no hurry to leave it Now the father was out all day at his work and his wife had a thousand things to do at home cooking and washing and

Excerpt from The Book of Saints and Heroes Long long ago when the world was young and gay grown up people must have been much more like children than they are at present The grown ups were quite as fond of fairy tales as any child can be to day and they actually believed in fairies more than some wise and grave little boys and girls do at present Why should they not believe in them for they met them danc ing in the open dells of the forests and saw them beau tiful girl fairies wading and swimming in the river pools These fairies were as friendly as they were fair to see and the fairy of the oak tree or the well would step out of it when a handsome shepherd or warrior passed and the pair would fall in love with each other and some times marry Homer the Oldest of Greek poets tells us as if it were the most natural thing in the world about a man who married a fairy and how as they were kind friendly people they built their house near a road and entertained all the passers by This sort of thing is still going on in the islands of the Pacific or so the natives believe A native of New Caledonia a young man the friend of a cousin of mine named Jim came to see him once and stayed long and seemed nervous and cried when he was saying goodbye About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
