Ethnobiology of Uzbekistan Olim K. Khojimatov, Yusufjon Gafforov, Rainer W. Bussmann, 2023-08-25 Natural resources and associated biological diversity provide the basis of livelihood for humans particularly in rural areas and mountain regions around the world. Over centuries indigenous peoples' traditional societies and local communities have developed their own specific knowledge regarding plant use, management and conservation. The history of plant use by humans as food and to treat diverse ailments dates back to ancient civilizations. Even though the advent of allopathic medicine has somehow minimized the role of medicinal plants in favor of synthetic drugs, a number of modern drug discoveries have been based on medicinal plants used by indigenous peoples. Ethnobiology is the burgeoning interdisciplinary scientific field which covers all sorts of interactions between plants and people and Central Asia is recognized as a plant diversity hot spot. The mountains and valleys of this region are rich in unique medicinal and food plant species. Local communities residing in the mountain regions of Central Asia possess unique knowledge of surrounding resources which is the result of many years of interaction with and selection of the most desirable and pervasive plant species present. In this context, this book provides comprehensive information on cross culture variation in the traditional uses of plants, fungi and animal species as food, medicine and for cultural purposes among the diverse communities of Uzbekistan. The key areas of focus include plant diversity in Uzbekistan, cross cultural variation in traditional uses of plant species, high value medicinal and food plant species and threats and conservation status of plant species and traditional knowledge.
