validate one another by demonstrating their capacity to indicate very different elements of lexical proficiency thereby offering a means by which to better conceptualize performance based assessment of L2 vocabulary in the future This book will be of interest to students and researchers working in second language acquisition and applied linguistics research particularly those interested in issues around assessment vocabulary acquisition and language proficiency The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a CC BY NC ND 4.0 license

Biomedical English Isabel Verdaguer, Natalia Judith Laso, Danica Salazar, 2013-06-15 The corpus based studies in this volume explore biomedical research writing in English from a variety of perspectives The articles in this collection delve into the lexicographic issues involved in building an electronic database of collocations and lexical bundles offer insight on the teaching and learning of prototypical multiword units of meaning in biomedical discourse and view written scientific English through the lens of such diverse fields as phraseology metaphor gender and discourse analysis The research presented in this book forms the theoretical and methodological foundation of SciE Lex a lexical database of collocations and prefabricated expressions designed to help scientists write scientific papers in English accurately The concluding chapter on FrameNet addresses frame semantics whose application to the cross linguistic study of scientific language will open new and promising avenues of research in the study of specialized languages
