Dr. Phillip Resnick

of some of America's most notorious murderers, from serial killer Jeffrey Dahmer
to Andrea Yates,
the Texas mother who drowned her five children
to "send them to heaven."

hillip I. Resnick, M.D., knows better than most anyone that murder is nothing to joke about. Even so, with just the slightest twinkle in his eye, he can say, "I've never met a murderer I didn't like."

In his case, it's appropriate to code Resnick the jest when answering a question he's been asked "not infrequently" over the past 30 years: How have you been affected by dealing with the dark side of human behavior?

Resnick, a forensic psychiatrist and director of the Division of Psychiatry at Case Western Reserve University School of Medicine, has carved a distinguished career from the study of child murderers, mass murders, serial killers, necrophiliacs and a panoply of psychotic and aberrant behaviors. As an expert witness, he's either testified in or consulted on a variety of headliner cases, from William Kennedy Smith (defense) and Jeffrey Dahmer (prosecution) to Susan Smith (defense). He also consulted for the U.S. Attorney in both the Timothy McVeigh/Terry Nichols and Theodore "Unabomber" Kaczynski cases.

Resnick has looked into the eyes of some of America's most notorious killers and been grilled on the witness stand by some of the country's top lawyers. He has had cameras pushed in his face in packed courthouse hallways and appeared on ABC's "Nightline." Resnick has heard it all. More than once. More times than he can count.

Fortunately, he thrives on the attention, the scrutiny and the courtroom competition. But while much of his public recognition comes from his expertise, Resnick has helped build one of the top forensic-psychiatry fellowship programs in the country at CWRU and University Hospitals of Cleveland.
