

De un hospital privado para dementes cerca de Providence, Rhode Island. Se dio recientemente a conocer el nombre de un paciente que fue puesto bajo contención de muy mala gana por el agridorado padre que había visto crecer su aberración desde una manera excéntrica. El caso de Charles Dexter Ward, un paciente de veintiseis años, justifican. La perturbación mental, es cierto, le envejece a un dramáticamente, pero el rostro de este joven había adquirido un sutil matiz que sólo los muy ancianos adquieren normalmente. En segundo lugar, los otros orgánicos mostraban una cierta rareza de manifestaciones que nada en la experiencia médica puede explicar. La respiración y la acción cardíaca presentaban una desconcertante falta de simetría; la voz se había perdido de modo que no eran posibles sus entonaciones superiores o un asustoso la digestión era increíblemente prolongada y mínima, y las funciones neuronales a veces anormales, como guardar la memoria en alguna con los registros de una vida pasada, ni normal ni patológico. La piel tenía una quietud morbida, y la estructura celular de la piel era exageradamente gruesa y flojamente tejida. En la parte superior de la cabeza desapareció una gran marca de nacimiento, en la caderecha, mientras que en el pecho o un lugar muy peculiar o una mancha negra antes había rastro. En general, todos los detalles en el caso de Charles Ward, los procesos del cerebro y el sistema nervioso no eran normales, pero en cada uno de los detalles había una anomalía única. Sin embargo, en una de las cosas más extrañas que se habían observado en los casos tratados, y estaba unida a una anomalía que se había convertido en un gesto o un movimiento que se había convertido en formas extrañas y grotescas. El caso de Charles Ward, un médico de cabecera de Ward, Rhode Island, que había sido admitido en el hospital en bruto del paciente, medida por su comportamiento. Los ajenos a la esfera de su locura había aumentado desde el ataque. Ward, es cierto, siempre fue un hombre brillante; pero incluso sus primeros trabajos más brillantes no mostraban la prodigiosa comprensión y perspicacia que se desarrolló durante los últimos exámenes por los salientistas. De hecho, un asunto que había obtenido recientemente legal en el hospital, tan poco celoso y lucido parecía a la mente del joven; y solo por la evidencia de otros, y por la fuerza de muchas lagunas anormales en la escritura de información, la evidencia de su inteligencia, fue finalmente entendido. En este momento mismo de su desaparición fue un hecho de un nivel tan grande y tan diverso como su poder. The Case of Charles Dexter Ward Howard Phillips Lovecraft, 2020-09-28 From a private hospital for the insane near Providence Rhode Island there recently disappeared an exceedingly singular person He bore the name of Charles Dexter Ward and was placed under restraint most reluctantly by his grieving father The patient seemed oddly older than his twenty six years would warrant his face had taken on a subtle cast which only the very aged usually acquire While his organic processes showed a certain queerness of proportion which nothing in medical experience can parallel Respiration and heart action had a baffling lack of symmetry the voice was lost so that no sounds above a whisper were possible digestion was incredibly prolonged and minimized The skin had a morbid chill and dryness and the cellular structure of the tissue seemed exaggeratedly coarse and loosely knit Even a large olive birthmark on his right hip had disappeared whilst there had formed on his chest a very peculiar mole or blackish spot of which no trace existed before Psychologically too Charles Ward was unique His madness held no affinity to any sort recorded in even the latest and most exhaustive of treatises and was conjoined to a mental force which would have made him a genius or a leader had it not been twisted into strange and grotesque forms Only Dr Willett who brought Charles Ward into the world and watched his growth of body and mind ever since seemed frightened at the thought of his future freedom He had had a terrible experience and had made a terrible discovery which he dared not reveal to his skeptical colleagues Willett indeed presents a minor mystery all his own in his connection with the case He was the last to see the patient before his flight and emerged from that final conversation in a state of mixed horror and relief which several recalled when Ward's escape became known three hours later That escape itself is one of the unsolved wonders of Dr Waite's hospital A window open above a sheer drop of sixty feet could hardly explain it yet after that talk with Willett the youth was undeniably gone He had found Ward in his room but shortly after his departure the attendants knocked in vain When they opened the door the patient was not there and all they found was the open window with a chill April breeze blowing in a cloud of fine bluish gray dust that almost choked them True the dogs had howled some time before but that was while Willett was still present and they had caught nothing and shown no disturbance later on Ward's father was told at once over the telephone but he seemed more saddened than surprised By the time Dr

Waite called in person Dr Willett had been talking with him and both disavowed any knowledge or complicity in the escape Only from certain closely confidential friends of Willett and the senior Ward have any clues been gained and even these are too wildly fantastic for general credence The one fact which remains is that up to the present time no trace of the missing madman has been unearthed Charles Ward was an antiquarian from infancy no doubt gaining his taste from the venerable town around him and from the relics of the past which filled every corner of his parent s old mansion in Prospect Street on the crest of the hill With the years his devotion to ancient things increased so that history genealogy and the study of Colonial architecture furniture and craftsmanship at length crowded everything else from his sphere of interests These tastes are important to remember in considering his madness One would have fancied the patient literally transferred to a former age through some obscure sort of auto hypnosis The odd thing was that Ward seemed no longer interested in the antiquities he knew so well He had it appears lost his regard for them through sheer familiarity and all his final efforts were obviously bent toward mastering those common facts of the modern world which had been so totally and unmistakably expunged from his brain His whole program of reading and conversation was determined by a frantic wish to imbibe such knowledge of his own life and of the ordinary practical and cultural background of the twentieth century as ought to have been his by virtue of his birth in 1902 and his education in the schools of our own time Alienists are of the dominant opinion that the escaped patient is lying low in some humble and unexactng position till his stock of modern information can be brought up to the normal The beginning of Ward s madness is a matter of dispute among alienists Dr Lyman the eminent Boston authority places it in 1919 or 1920 during the boy s last year at the Moses Brown School when he suddenly turned from the study of the past to the study of the occult and refused to qualify for college on the ground that he had individual researches of much greater importance to make
