Place-Based Spaces for Networked Learning Lucila Carvalho, Peter Goodyear, Maarten de Laat, 2016-07-01 With the boundaries of place softened and extended by digital communications technologies learning in a networked society necessitates new distributions of activity across time space media and people and this development is no longer exclusive to formally designated spaces such as school classrooms lecture halls or research laboratories Place based Spaces for Networked Learning explores how qualities of physical places make both formal and informal education in a networked society possible Through a series of investigations and case studies it illuminates the structural composition and functioning of complex learning environments

This book offers a wealth of key design elements and attributes for productive learning that educational designers can reuse in multiple contexts. The chapters examine how places are modified, expanded or supplemented by networking technologies and practices in order to create spaces in which learners can collaboratively develop new understandings, connections and capabilities. Utilizing a range of diverse but complementary perspectives from anthropology, archaeology, architecture, geography, psychology, sociology and urban studies, Place based Spaces for Networked Learning addresses how material places and digital spaces are understood, how sense can be made of new assemblages and configurations of tasks, tools and people, how the real time analysis of new flows of data can inform and entertain users of a space and how access to the digital realm changes our experiences with both places and other people.
