Long,2024-09-30 A detailed account of British intelligence operations in Cold War East Germany revealing Soviet and East German military secrets from 1946 to 1990 The German Democratic Republic or East Germany was the frontline in the Cold War packed with hundreds of thousands of Soviet and East German troops armed with the latest Warsaw Pact equipment lined up along the 1 400 km Inner German Border However because of the repressive East German police state little human intelligence about these forces reached the West Who were they Where were they located What were they doing How were they equipped What were their intentions NATO was lined up in West Germany to face these forces and relied on getting up to date intelligence to warn of any threat Indicators of Hostility that could be a precursor to an invasion BRIXMIS the British Commanders in Chief Mission to the Soviet Forces in Germany was on hand to provide that intelligence Thanks to an obscure 1946 agreement between the British and Soviets that established liaison missions in their respective zones of occupation the British were able to send highly qualified military observers into East Germany to roam relatively freely and keep an eye on what was going on What started as liaison a point of contact between the British and Soviet occupation forces developed into a very sophisticated intelligence collection operation sending tours out every day of the year between 1946 and when the Mission closed in 1990 These tours were undertaken in high performance highly modified marked vehicles with personnel in uniform and unarmed apart from professional photographic equipment and occasionally some top secret gadgets from the boffins back in the UK They joined their French and American colleagues in snooping around the opposition photographing military bases equipment and maneuvers and trying to evade capture by the secret police and counterintelligence units They faced danger and violence daily but thanks to their bravery and professionalism the West had accurate and up to date information on what was happening in East Germany which helped keep the peace all that time This is the story of this little known unit and their exploits behind enemy lines Accountancy ,1989 Director ,1981 Rover SD1 James

Taylor,2016-08-31 Rover s big hatchback saloon of the 1970s and 1980s had all the elements of a superb motor car It was the work of long standing Rover engineers with substantial input from their colleagues at Triumph The SD1 s top models even shared their V8 engines with earlier and much loved classics from Rover It was stunningly attractive cleverly derived from Italian supercar styling and still extraordinarily practical thanks to its large hatchback configuration In this new book Rover historian James Taylor tells the full story of the SD1 warts and all from initial concept to final production model The oft criticized early models and the more successful later variants are discussed as well as the exclusive Vitesse and Vanden Plas models and overseas and police variants Finally for those inspired enough to seek one out today there is guidance on purchase and ownership BRIXMIS Steve Gibson, 2011-11-30 BRIXMIS British Commander in Chief's Mission to the Group Soviet Forces of Occupation in Germany is one of the most covert elite units of the British Army. They were dropped in behind enemy lines ten months after the Second World War had ended and continued with their intelligence gathering missions until the fall of the Berlin Wall in November 1989. During this period, Berlin was a hotbed of spying between East and West. BRIXMIS was established as a trusted channel of communication between the Red Army and the British Army on the Rhine. However, they acted in the shadows to steal advanced Soviet equipment and penetrate top secret training areas. Here Steve Gibson offers a new understanding of the complex British role in the Cold War.
