

3.1 Defence mechanisms

Pathogen	a microorganism that can cause an infectious disease
Immunity	the ability of an organism to resist a particular infection or toxin by antibodies or white blood cells
Infection	process of a pathogen invading and multiplying in the body tissue of the host
Antigen	a foreign protein found on the cell surface membrane which triggers an immune response
Phagocytosis	mechanisms by which cells engulf particles to form a vesicle or a vacuole
Phagocytes	ingest and destroy the pathogen
Lymphocytes	cells involved in immune responses
Antigen-presenting cell	cells that display foreign antigens on the surface
Monoclonal antibody	a collection of identical antibodies cloned from a single antibody
Vaccination	introduction of a vaccine containing appropriate disease antigens injected into the body in order to induce artificial immunity
Antibody	a protein produced by lymphocytes (B cells) in response to the presence of a specific antigen which stimulates an immune response

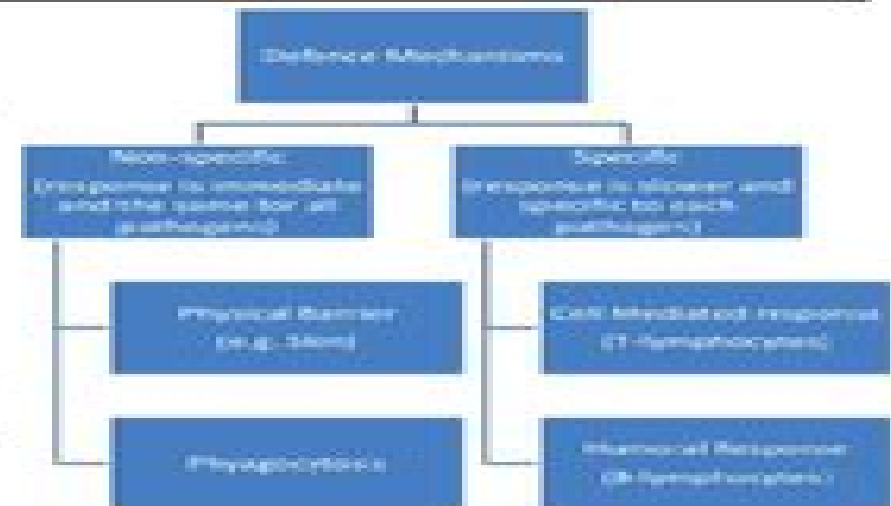

Recognising your own cells

- if the lymphocytes couldn't identify self from non-self molecules then the lymphocytes would destroy the organism's own tissue.
- Each cell has specific molecules on its surface to identify it. This is why a transplant donor has to be genetically similar to the recipient or the organ might be rejected and the person will die.

Humoral response secretes antibodies; cell-mediated response secretes cytokines (signals cells about a potential pathogen)

How does the body learn to identify its own molecules?

- In the fetus lymphocytes are always colliding with other cells
- Infections are rare as the fetus is protected by a placenta
- Lymphocytes will collide mostly with self material
- Some lymphocytes will have receptors that fit exactly to self material
- These are then far suppressed or die
- In adults lymphocytes produced in the same manner encounter self antigens at the start
- Any lymphocytes that show an immune response will then undergo programmed cell death (apoptosis) before they mature

3.2 Phagocytosis

The process of phagocytosis

- Chemical products of pathogen act as attractants causing phagocytes to follow it
- Phagocytes have several receptors on their cell surface membrane that recognise and attach to chemicals on the surface of the pathogen.
- The phagocyte engulfs the pathogen to form a vesicle (phagosome)
- Cytosomes move in to fuse with the vesicle
- Cytosomes destroy ingested bacteria by hydrolysing the pathogen's cell walls
- The soluble products from the breakdown of the pathogen are absorbed into the cytoplasm of the phagocyte
- The antigen is then presented on the cell surface membrane of the phagocyte

2 types of white blood cells:

- Phagocytes (ingest destroy)
- Lymphocytes (involved in immune responses)

3.3 T lymphocytes and cell-mediated immunity

Cytotoxic T cells

- produced by stem cells in the same manner

The stages of T cells in response to a pathogen

- The pathogens invade body cells or are taken in by phagocytosis
- Phagocyte becomes an antigen presenting cell
- Receptors on a specific helper T cell fit exactly onto these antigens
- The attachment activates T cells to divide by mitosis and clone itself
- The cloned T cells
