Viper Programming Manual:

SIMD Programming Manual for Linux and Windows Paul Cockshott, Kenneth Renfrew, 2013-03-09 A number of widely used contemporary processors have instruction set extensions for improved performance in multi media applications The aim is to allow operations to proceed on multiple pixels each clock cycle Such instruction sets have been incorporated both in specialist DSPchips such as the Texas C62xx Texas Instruments 1998 and in general purpose CPU chips like the Intel IA32 Intel 2000 or the AMD K6 Advanced Micro Devices 1999 These instruction set extensions are typically based on the Single Instruction stream Multiple Data stream SIMD model in which a single instruction causes the same mathematical operation to be carried out on several operands or pairs of operands at the same time The level of parallelism supported ranges from two floating point operations at a time on the AMD K6 architecture to 16 byte operations at a time on the Intel P4 architecture Whereas processor architectures are moving towards greater levels of parallelism the most widely used programming languages such as C Java and Delphi are structured around a model of computation in which operations take place on a single value at a time This was appropriate when processors worked this way but has become an impediment to programmers seeking to make use of the performance offered by multi media instruction sets The introduction of SIMD instruction sets Peleg et al

Mars Adapting Francis Hoffman,2021-03-15 As Clausewitz observed In war more than anywhere else things do not turn out as we expect The essence of war is a competitive reciprocal relationship with an adversary Commanders and institutional leaders must recognize shortfalls and resolve gaps rapidly in the middle of the fog of war The side that reacts best and absorbs faster increases its chances of winning Mars Adapting examines what makes some military organizations better at this contest than others It explores the institutional characteristics or attributes at play in learning quickly Adaptation requires a dynamic process of acquiring knowledge the utilization of that knowledge to alter a unit's skills and the sharing of that learning to other units to integrate and institutionalize better operational practice Mars Adapting explores the internal institutional factors that promote and enable military adaptation It employs four cases drawing upon one from each of the U.S. armed services Each case was an extensive campaign with several cycles of action counteraction In each case the military institution entered the war with an existing mental model of the war they expected to fight For example the U.S. Navy prepared for decades to defeat the Japanese Imperial Navy and had developed carrier based aviation Other capabilities particularly the Fleet submarine were applied as a major adaptation The author establishes a theory called Organizational Learning Capacity that captures the transition of experience and knowledge from individuals into larger and higher levels of each military service through four major steps The learning change cycle is influenced he argues by four institutional attributes leadership organizational culture learning mechanisms and dissemination mechanisms The dynamic interplay of these institutional enablers shaped their ability to perceive and change appropriately
