Data Curation and Information Systems Design from

Australasia Julie Nichols,Bharat Mehra,2024-01-31 The need for decolonizing mismanagement practices in galleries libraries archives and museums of First Nations peoples materials and knowledge has been widely recognised Authors from Indigenous and non Indigenous backgrounds powerfully challenge entrenched assumptions of knowledge capture and dissemination of the western academy Sustainable Development in Africa Walter Leal Filho,Rudi Pretorius,Luiza Olim de Sousa,2021-07-09 This book serves the purpose of documenting and promoting African experiences on sustainable development which encompasses both formal and non formal education Sustainable development is very important to Africa but there is a paucity of publication which documents and promotes experiences from African countries Due to their complexity the interrelations between social economic and political factors related to sustainable development especially at universities need to be better understood There is also a real need to showcase successful examples of how African institutions are handling their sustainability challenges It is against this background that this book has been produced It is a truly interdisciplinary publication useful to scholars social movements practitioners and members of governmental agencies and private companies undertaking research and or executing projects focusing on sustainability from across Africa As African nations strive to pursue the UN Sustainable Development Goals it is imperative to cater for the information needs seen across the continent and foster the dissemination of experiences and case studies which may support both on going and future efforts The scope of the book is deliberately kept wide and we are looking for contributions across the spectrum of sustainable development from business and economics to arts and fashion administration environment languages and media studies Intimate Partner Violence, Risk and Security Kate Fitz-Gibbon,Sandra Walklate,Jude McCulloch,JaneMaree Maher,2018-06-14 This edited collection addresses intimate partner violence risk and security as global issues Although intimate partner violence risk and security are intimately connected they are rarely considered in tandem in the context of global security Yet intimate partner violence causes widespread physical sexual and or psychological harm It is the most common type of violence against women internationally and is estimated to affect 30 per cent of women worldwide Intimate partner violence has received significant attention in recent years animating political debate policy and law reform as well as scholarly attention In bringing together a range of international experts this edited collection challenges status quo understandings of risk and questions how we can reposition the risk of IPV and particularly the risk of IPH as a critical site of global and national security It brings together contributions from a range of disciplines and international jurisdictions including from Australia and New Zealand United Kingdom Europe United States North America Brazil and South Africa The contributions here urge us to think about perpetrators in more nuanced and sophisticated ways with chapters pointing to the structural and social factors that facilitate and sustain violence against women and IPV Contributors point out that states not only exacerbate the structural conditions producing the risks of violence but directly coerce and control women as both citizens and non citizens States too should be understood as collaborators and facilitators of intimate partner violence Effective action against intimate partner violence requires sustained responses at the global state and local levels to end gender inequality Critical to this end are environmental issues poverty and the divisions often along race and ethnic lines underpinning other dimensions of social and economic inequality
