

Timing Marks

A detailed close-up photograph of an engine's timing mechanism. Two large, dark metal gears are visible, meshed together. The gear on the left has several circular cutouts and is secured with four bolts. The gear on the right is solid and shows some wear. Between the gears, a metal component has the letters 'RNC' cast into it. Small yellow dots are applied to the teeth of both gears to indicate specific timing marks. The background is a blurred workshop environment with various tools and engine parts.
