Lesson 3: Text-to-Text Connections

Learning Outcome

Identify and describe connections between one text and another.

Duration

Approximately 50 minutes

Necessary Materials

Provided: Independent Practice Worksheet

Not Provided: It's Sleeps Over by Bernard Weber, It's Says Goodbye by Bernard Weber

Lesson Plan

DIRECT TEACHING

I will explain to students that good readers should also think about how the story relates to other stories they have read, in order to understand the story better. I will review with students that drawing conclusions about a text means we are thinking about what we already know and combining it with what is in the text. In this case, we are thinking about what we already know about other books. I will give an example of two books previously read in class. I will model making connections between the two texts in order to understand the stories better. For example, "When we read Lily's Big Day (from the Character unit), I remembered from reading Lily's Purple Plastic Purse (also from the Character unit) that although Lily really loves her teacher Mr. Singer, sometimes she gets angry at him when he doesn't let her do what she wants. Remembering this about Lily helped me understand her behavior in the story better."

THINK CHECK

Ask: How did I use one book to better understand another book? Students should respond that you thought about how a character acted in one book and used that information to better understand how the character acted in another book.

GUIDED PRACTICE

WE will do a picture-walk through It's Sleeps Over by Bernard Weber. We will think about how it feels to be made fun of and remember that Ira is afraid that Reggie will laugh at his teddy bear. We will identify other books in which characters are
