

How To Write A Text Response Essay

The principles of a text response essay are crucial to understand to be successful in English. Essentially in this type of text response essay you are exploring and discussing the ideas the text deals with and how it goes about doing this.

What does this mean for you? Well, first of all writing your essay is a pretty familiar process:

- Break down the prompt to find out what it is asking you to discuss and deal with.
- Identify and articulate your thesis statement (your central idea or the overarching response to the prompting material, for those of you not familiar with this term). Remember that you don't have to agree with the prompt and that you can clarify your position to 'find the grey areas'.
- Decide what three or four ideas you would like to deal with (or what three or four questions you think you need to answer) to fully deal with all parts of the prompt and address all elements of the criteria.
- Plan out these as your paragraphs, ordering them so that you build a complex analysis of the text and so that each paragraph builds on the ideas presented in the last.
- Think of at least two or three examples that can be used to justify each of these points and note down how they connect to the ideas in the text so you are sure you are not just discussing the storyline or plot.

Since Year 8 we have provided you with a method of thinking through your planning which was very basic. That was okay to learn the process but now you need you to move on to writing well-crafted and eloquent essays. This first method is the next step along your journey of writing essays. This is still a simplistic structure but the focus is on exploration of ideas and discussion rather than dot point bits of information joined up. Use this structure as a starting point to get the bones of an essay right and begin moving more to discussion and detailed analysis but if you are feeling confident take the next step over the page and try working on more complex and detailed main body paragraphs.
