Unit Five B - Test Preparation for the Writing Demands of the NYS ELA (Grades 6-8)

Late Feb/March

This version of the test preparation unit was created by the TCRWP in January and February of 2015. The unit was developed based on the most up-to-date information we have on the 2015 tests, including the New York State Educator Guides 2015 at each grade level, released and annotated questions and answers from the 2014 NYS ELA, and 2014 student performance data from TCRWP schools.

Introduction to the Unit

This version of the test preparation unit was created by the TCRWP in January and February of 2015. The unit was developed based on the most up-to-date information we have on the 2015 tests, including the New York State Educator Guides 2015 at each grade level, released and annotated questions and answers from the 2014 NYS ELA, and 2014 student performance data from TCRWP schools.

Extended response questions and scored student responses from previous years, can be found on the New York State Testing Site: <http://www.p12.nysed.gov/assessment/english/samplers/ela.html> (though it is important to note that these tests have become increasingly difficult since 2013). Sample questions for 2013 can be found at: <http://engageny.org/resource/new-york-state-common-core-sample-questions>, and the annotated, released questions from the 2014 ELA are available at <http://www.engageny.org/resource/new-york-state-common-core-sample-questions>.

Before addressing the plan for the unit and delving into the instructional decisions you will need to make, it is important to remember that the ELA is primarily a reading test. While students are asked to write on the test, it is always writing in response to reading. That is, the tasks of the exam are designed to assess students' ability to write from sources. While spelling and grammar factor into a student's score, the content of the response is more heavily weighted. Students are expected to demonstrate that they have understood and analyzed the given passage(s), read and understood the prompt, and clearly incorporated evidence from the passages in their responses.

however that American history while grand has never been unified Delving into more than 100 history books from the last 150 years the author reveals that the efforts of pressure groups to influence the history curriculum are nearly as old as the mustiest textbook For those who would influence textbooks and teaching Protestant elites in the 1870s Irish Americans in the 1920s and conservative politicians today the sky has always been falling according to Moreau Schoolbook Nation offers a history lesson of its own when the story of the past is written or rewritten truth is often a victim With its comprehensive treatment of the subjects of honesty and politics in the teaching of history this is an essential book on the side of truth in a complex debate

Contested Curriculum Don Romesburg, 2025-04-15 Today many states have proposed so called Don t Say Gay bills that prohibit public school teachers from mentioning LGBTQ topics in the classroom But a few states like California have taken decisive steps in the other direction They mandate inclusive education that treats LGBTQ history as essential to the curriculum At once a history of an evolving movement and an activist handbook Contested Curriculum navigates the rocky path to LGBTQ inclusive K 12 history education in the United States and recounts the fight for a curriculum that recognizes the value of queer and trans lives What began in fits and starts in activism and educational materials across the late twentieth century led to the passage of California s landmark FAIR Education Act in 2011 ensuring that LGBTQ history has a place in the K 12 classroom Historian Don Romesburg the lead scholar who worked with advocacy organizations to pass the act recounts the decades long struggle to integrate LGBTQ content into history education policy textbooks and classrooms Looking at California and states that followed its lead he assesses the challenges and opportunities presented by this new way of teaching history Romesburg s powerful case for LGBTQ inclusive education is all the more urgent in this era of anti gay book bans regressive legislation and attempts to diminish the vital role that inclusive and honest history education should play in a democratic nation
