A First Ohio Weed Manual Augustine Dawson Selby, Francis Marion Webster, J. Fremont Hickman, Joseph Elwyn Wing, Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, William James Green, L. M. Bloomfield, 1897

Biology and ecology of weeds W. Holzner, M. Numata, 2013-03-14 Weeds are a fascinating study for specialists not only because of their economic importance but also since in this case biology must be combined with history and agriculture and its economic aspects Thus weed scientists may be concerned with pure basic research concentrating on general aspects or with applied science i.e. having a practical orientation. One of the aims of this book is to create a synthesis between these two branches of study and to review the literature of both fields. The agrestals, the weeds of arable land, the most important group from an economic point of view, was chosen as the main topic. Other weed groups could only be mentioned briefly, e.g. grassland weeds or superficially, e.g. aquatic weeds or had to be omitted completely, e.g. ruderals, because they are so heterogeneous to keep this volume to an acceptable size and price. Nevertheless, nearly all subsections of botanical science have been treated.

A Technical Manual for Parasitic Weed Research and Extension J. Kroschel, 2013-12-01. Parasitic weeds of the families Cuscutaceae, Orobanchaceae and Scrophulariaceae are considered to be among the major problems facing agriculture in the Tropics and Subtropics. In the last decades, enormous efforts have been made and success achieved by scientists all over the world in gaining a better understanding of their biology and ecology as well as of control methods. However, no substantial reduction of infestation has been achieved in the past and control strategies specific to the different parasites, crops and farming systems must be further developed or adapted and realised among a wider farming population with suitable extension methods. This Technical Manual provides up-to-date methodologies for various aspects of research and extension related to parasitic weed species of the genera Striga, Alectra, Orobanche and Cuscuta. It has the intention to support scientists and extension workers of international and national research and extension institutes and universities who are either new to the subject or plan to apply further techniques they are not yet familiar with.
