sociology Geobotanical cartography is a field of thematic cartography that deals with the interpretation and representation in the form of maps of those spatial and temporal phenomena that pertain to flora vegetation vegetated landscapes vegetation zones and phytogeographical units The production of a geobotanical map represents the last stage in a cognitive process that begins with observations in the field and continues with the collection of sample data interpretation of the phenomena observed and their appropriate cartographic representation geobotanical cartography is closely tied to the concepts and scope of geobotany in general The Structure of Knowledge Using Natural Patterns John Krey M.Ed., M.Sc.

Chemistry,2020-01-31 The Structure of Knowledge Using Natural Patterns By John Krey The Structure of Knowledge Using Natural Patterns demonstrates through natural patterns how scientific structures concepts and facts should be organized in textbooks and in lessons Just like the Periodic Table of the chemical elements these patterns also present a periodicity that extends to all periodic knowledge knowledge that elaborates upon the truth Revisiting the Biome Concept with a

Functional Lens Daniel M. Griffith,Christopher J. Still,Colin P. Osborne,2019-08-02 Early biogeographers such as Alexander von Humboldt recognized the broad scale coupling of vegetation and climate This observation shaped the modern biome concept which organizes ecosystems by assumed relationships to environmental controls This approach has been criticized for missing key impacts on the distribution and functioning of biomes like historical contingency biogeographic history disturbance ecology and evolution Are biomes still a convenient framework for organizing our understanding of biodiversity What factors determine the functional differences among and within biomes and at what spatial temporal and phylogenetic scales are those drivers most important How can we better represent the functional characteristics and dynamics of ecosystems This Research Topic highlights the latest discussions and research on biomes drawing from a wide range of approaches spanning from macroecology and phylogeography to remote sensing and modelling ecosystem responses to global change Being a Scientist Michael H. Vegetation and Climate Siegmund W. Breckle,M. Daud Rafiqpoor,2022-11-07 Vegetation soil and climate are the most important components of ecological systems The book represents a compact synthesis of our current knowledge about the ecology of the Earth and is thus the basis for understanding the major interrelationships in a global perspective In the first part with a rich endowment of illustrations and photographic material the well introduced book deals with the essential processes and operations on the Earth's surface that lead to the formation of the vegetation cover with its distinctive zonation In the second part the individual vegetation zones as large scale ecosystems i.e. zonobiomes of the biosphere are consistently described comparatively according to certain criteria In a short and compact form the main characteristics and structures as well as examples of ecosystem processes are discussed The large scale ecosystems are at the same time the basis and reference system for all anthropogenic changes that have drastically altered the vegetation in the last millennia but especially in the 20th century This book is a translation of the original German 1st edition Vegetation und Klima by Siegmund W Breckle and M Daud Rafiqpoor published by Springer Verlag GmbH Germany part of Springer Nature in 2019 The translation was done with the help of artificial intelligence machine translation by the service DeepL com A subsequent human revision was done primarily in terms of content so that the book will read stylistically differently from a conventional translation Springer Nature works continuously to further the development of tools for the production of books and on the related technologies to support the authors

The Biology of Mediterranean-Type Ecosystems Karen J. Esler,Anna L. Jacobsen,R. Brandon Pratt,2018-03-09 The world s mediterranean type climate regions including areas within the Mediterranean South Africa Australia California and Chile have long been of interest to biologists by virtue of their extraordinary biodiversity and the appearance of evolutionary convergence between these disparate regions These regions contain many rare and endemic species Their mild climate makes them appealing places to live and visit and this has resulted in numerous threats to the species and communities that occupy them Threats include a wide range of factors such as habitat loss due to development and agriculture disturbance invasive species and climate change As a result they continue to attract far more attention than their limited geographic area might suggest This book provides a concise but comprehensive introduction to mediterranean type ecosystems It is an accessible text which provides an authoritative overview of the topic As with other books in the Biology of Habitats Series the emphasis in this book is on the organisms that dominate these regions although their management conservation and restoration are also considered
