LEADERSHIP Ten years ago our nation was on the right road to fiscal stability with four years of surpluses totaling 560 billion Unfortunately private and public sector senior executives made serious mistakes during the past decade resulting in our federal government being on the road to a financial meltdown This could lead to a long term and deep economic depression like the 1930s In Educating Voters for Rebuilding America Jack Bowsher takes a deep investigative look into how Americans can turn the country around To avoid many tax increases being discussed in Washington DC Bowsher argues that there must be systemic changes in many areas of our government and in the free enterprise system Only then will Americans enjoy economic prosperity higher employment levels affordable education systems a balanced budget a modern nation wide energy system and much more Bowsher describes how these national goals can be achieved in this decade by implementing the required systemic changes and also shows how Social Security and Medicare benefits can be affordable in future years Voters must be educated on the major issues and challenges facing our nation Only they have the power to end the civil war between our two political parties by electing qualified candidates in the White House and Congress in 2012 Educate yourself

Reconstruction, 2009 Product Description The billions of dollars expended in Iraq constitute the largest relief and reconstruction exercise in American history SIGIR s lessons learned capping report characterizes this effort in four phases pre war to ORHA CPA post CPA Negroponte era and Khalilzad Crocker and the Surge From this history SIGIR forwards a series of conclusions and recommendations for Congress to consider when organizing for the next post conflict reconstruction situation Over the past five years the United States has provided nearly fifty billion dollars for the relief and reconstruction of Iraq This unprecedented rebuilding program implemented after the March 2003 invasion was developed to restore Iraq s essential services build Iraq s security forces create a market based economy and establish a democratic government all in pursuit of U S interests in a stable and free Iraq Did the U S rebuilding program achieve its objectives Was the money provided well spent or wasted What lessons have we learned from the experience Hard Lessons The Iraq Reconstruction Experience a report from the Special Inspector General for Iraq Reconstruction SIGIR answers these and other important questions by presenting a comprehensive history of the U S program chiefly derived from SIGIR s body of extensive oversight work in Iraq hundreds of interviews with key figures involved with the reconstruction program and thousands of documents evidencing the reconstruction work that was or was not done The report examines the limited pre war planning for reconstruction the shift from a large infrastructure program to a more community based one and the success of the Surge in 2007 and beyond Hard Lessons concludes that the U S government did not have the structure or resources in place to execute the mammoth relief and reconstruction plan it took on in 2003 The lessons learned from this experience create a basis for reviewing and reforming the U S approach to contingency relief and reconstruction operations every governing system devised Despite the ubiquity of state legislatures we know remarkably little about how Americans have viewed them as organizations in terms of their structures rules and procedures But with the rise of modern public opinion surveys in the twentieth century we now have extensive data on how Americans have gauged legislative performance throughout the many years That said the responses to the questions pollsters typically pose reflect partisanship policy and personality Generally respondents respond favorably to legislatures controlled by their own political party and those in power during good economic times Incumbent lawmakers get ratings boosts from having personalities home styles that mesh with those of their constituents These relationships are important indicators of people s thoughts regarding the current performance of their legislatures and legislators but they tell us nothing about attitudes toward the institution and its organizational characteristics This study offers a unique perspective on what American voters have historically thought about legislatures as organizations and legislators as representatives Rather than focusing on responses to surveys that ask respondents how they rate the current performance of lawmakers and legislatures this study leverages the most significant difference between national and state politics the existence of ballot propositions in the latter At the national level Americans have never had any say over Congress s structure rules or procedures In contrast at the state level they have had ample opportunities over the course of more than two centuries to shape their state legislatures The data examined here look at how people have voted on more than 1 500 state ballot propositions targeting a wide array of legislative organizational and parliamentary features By linking the votes on these measures with the public debates preceding them this study documents not only how American viewed various aspects of their legislatures but also whether their opinions held constant or shifted over time The findings reported paint a more nuanced picture of Americans attitudes toward legislatures than the prevailing one derived from survey research When presented with legislative reform measures on which concrete choices were offered and decisions on them had to be made the analyses presented here reveal that counter to the conventional wisdom that people loved their representatives but hated the legislature voters usually took charitable positions toward the institution while harboring skeptical attitudes about lawmakers motives and behaviors
