Irma-Kaarina Ghosn,2013-09-01 Storybridge to Second Language Literacy makes a case for using authentic children s literature alternately also referred to as stories or real books as the medium of instruction in teaching English to young learners particularly in contexts where children must access general curriculum subjects in English The author first proposes theoretical foundations for the argument that illustrated children s books are superior to traditional language teaching courses in the primary school She builds the case around the motivational power of stories the language and content of quality children s literature and the potential of literature to contribute to development of second language academic literacy She then reviews research of the past thirty years that clearly supports her claim Finally she uses transcripts from real classrooms to illustrate how teachers in diverse contexts make use of stories Through the classroom vignettes a practical model of literature based instruction emerges that is adaptable to a wide range of primary school teaching contexts including English as a second language contexts in core English countries Storybridge to Second Language Literacy compiles in one volume solid theoretical foundations for story based instruction research evidence of the past thirty years supporting the approach not currently available in a single source and extensive classroom vignettes illustrating diverse practical applications not lesson plans This makes the book valuable for anyone in the field of young learner ELT MA students in TESOL will find the book useful and will develop an understanding of why and how literature based instruction works and develop insight to guide their practice Members of TESOL Elementary Education EFL and Bilingual Education SIGs and IATEFL Young Learner SIG will be interested in the volume Instructors of teacher development courses should also find the proposed volume a valuable addition to assigned readings Each chapter is followed by Think about it questions and Try it out suggestions Handbook of the Sociology of Education Maureen T. Hallinan,2006-11-24 The aim of the Handbook of Sociology of Education is to present the most theoretically grounded and empirically rigorous sociological analyses of schools to date The authors are distinguished researchers in the field Their contributions to the Handbook offer major theoretical perspectives on the schooling process and describe significant empirical studies of schools and their effects on individuals and society. The research presented in the Handbook is built on three fundamental tenets of sociology. First, the authors adopt the perspective that schools are a central institution in society. An understanding of the function of schooling in social life is enhanced by viewing schools as interrelated with other societal institutions. The study of how the context of schooling influences education processes is critical to an understanding of school outcomes. Rather than being determined solely by ascribed and achieved characteristics, an individual's cognitive and social development are influenced heavily by the structures and networks in which the individual is embedded. Communities, families, schools, and social groups are critical elements in the educative process. By viewing the school as a societal institution and highlighting the interaction between context and individual behavior, the Handbook chapters provide a broader and deeper understanding of the determinants of learning in contemporary society. The second sociological insight that guides the research in the Handbook is that the school is a social system.

The Wiley Handbook of Social Studies Research is a wide-ranging resource on the current state of social studies education. This timely work not only reflects on the many recent developments in the field but also explores emerging trends. This is the first major reference work on social studies education and research in a decade. An in-depth look at the current state of social studies education and emerging trends. Three sections cover foundations of social studies research, theoretical and methodological frameworks guiding social studies research, and current trends and research related to teaching and learning social studies. A state-of-the-art guide for both graduate students and established researchers. Guided by an advisory board of well-respected scholars in social studies education research.      The Relationship Between Time Sense, Evaluating Information, and Achievement in American History William Earl Gardner, 1961
