Measuring Respirator Use in the Workplace National Research Council, Committee on National Statistics, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Chemical Sciences and Technology, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Committee on the Review of the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health/Bureau of Labor Statistics Respirator Use Survey, 2007-06-21 Respirators are used in a variety of workplaces including emergency response mining operations construction manufacturing and hospitals. In 2001 National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health NIOSH and Bureau of Labor Statistics commissioned a nationwide survey of respirator use in the workplace the results of which were published in the 2003 report Respirator Usage in Private Sector Firms. The purpose of the survey was to evaluate respirator use and practices including training practices and the value of respirator manufacturer's instruction in order to help guide NIOSH respirator certification and research. This National Research Council NRC report evaluates the survey in terms of several measures such as the adequacy and appropriateness of the survey instrument the survey methodology data analysis and the conclusions drawn from the data. The NRC report finds that the survey was an important first step in collecting respiratory protection data from a probability sample but that several improvements could be made in survey design and analysis. Based on the review of the survey the NRC report concludes that data on respirator use would be best provided by employers and employees in the context of the work setting.
