Research conducted in the United States by the National Bureau of Economic Research has found that the average person in the United States spends about 10 percent of their income on health care. This is a significant increase from the 5 percent spent in 1960. The increase is due to a number of factors, including the aging of the population, the rise in the incidence of chronic diseases, and the increasing cost of medical technology.

■ THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO has been selected by the U.S. Department of Education to receive a $10 million grant to help pay the cost of the first year of tuition for 100 low-income students from Chicago public schools. The grant is part of the federal Department of Education's new program to help pay the cost of college for low-income students. The program is called the "College for All" program.
