Nation and Race in West End Revue David Linton, 2021-07-31 London West End revue constituted a particular response to mounting social political and cultural insecurities over Britain's status and position at the beginning of the twentieth century. Insecurities regarding Britain's colonial rule as exemplified in Ireland and elsewhere were compounded by growing demands for social reform across the country, the call for women's emancipation, the growth of the labour and the trade union movements, all created a climate of mounting disillusion. Revue correlated the immediacy of this uncertain world through a fragmented vocabulary of performance placing satire, parody, social commentary and critique at its core and found popularity in reflecting and responding to the variations of the new lived experiences. Multidisciplinary in its creation and realisation, revue incorporated dance, music, design, theatre and film, appropriating pre-modern theatre forms, techniques and styles such as burlesque, music hall, pantomime, minstrelsy and pierrot. Experimenting with narrative and expressions of speech, movement, design and sound, revue displayed ambivalent representations that reflected social and cultural negotiations of previously essentialised identities in the modern world. Part of a wide and diverse cultural space at the beginning of the twentieth century, it was acknowledged both by the intellectual avant-garde and the workers' theatre movement not only as a reflexive action but also as an evolving dynamic multidisciplinary performance model which was highly influential across British culture. Revue displaced the romanticism of musical comedy by combining a satirical listless detachment with a defiant sophistication that articulated a fading British hegemonic sensibility, a cultural expression of a fragile and changing social and political order.

Theory for Theatre Studies: Light Dean Wilcox, 2024-06-27 What properties of light can be manipulated for aesthetic effect? What role does the perception of the audience play in how stage information is received and processed? How do changes in technology affect methods or approaches to design and practice? This book is designed to introduce key ideas about light and to generate questions and perspectives that will encourage readers to explore light in the theatre more fully in their own critical and creative practices. Examining the theories behind stage lighting practice to help students learn to analyse the aesthetic and critical impacts of light in performance, this book traces the development of lighting practice by focusing on important shifts in technology and aesthetics from the classical period to the modern era. Central to this study are ideas developed by New Stagecraft theorists and designers: Adolphe Appia, Edward Gordon Craig and Robert Edmond Jones. Case studies include semiotic approaches to Loie Fuller's combination of light, movement and costume; Robert Wilson's Einstein on the Beach; and Tadashi Suzuki's The Trojan Women. Further case studies including the installation work of James Turrell and Refik Anadol, the Winston Salem Light Project and David Byrne's American Utopia examine the use of light in theatrical and non-theatrical spaces by focusing on phenomenology, community engagement and the evolution of lighting technology.
