addictions      Human Behavior and the Social Environment, Macro Level Katherine S. Van Wormer, Fred H. Besthorn, Thomas Keefe, 2007 Each person is a unique individual yet we all are also defined by groups those we belong to and those we are excluded from voluntarily or involuntarily In the second half of the Human Behavior and the Social Environment sequence Katherine van Wormer Fred Besthorn and Thomas Keefe take a stimulating new approach to exploring this macro view of humanity and demonstrating how each component of society from the single person to the sprawling organization is part of a dynamic whole Their collaboration has produced a remarkable volume that will help students recognize and consider interactions between and among individuals and social systems and thereby develop into truly effective social workers Outlines theoretical concepts and practice implications in each chapter Highlights the importance of the natural environment and ecology the community of the earth to human and group behavior Sets forth a refined understanding of the role of spirituality the community of faith in people s lives Focuses on evidence based theory and research Teaches from a global cross cultural perspective highlighting themes of empowerment and social justice Features dynamic readings and personal narratives that highlight each chapter s topic Accompanied by an online instructor s manual with Power Points for lecture presentations chapter summaries key terms suggested classroom activities and a test bank with essay and multiple choice questions Also available is a companion volume Human Behavior and the Social Environment Micro Level which offers an eye opening view of how biological psychological and cultural forces influence individuals behavior      Environmentalism for a New Millennium Leslie Paul Thiele, 1999-04-29 The vast majority of people in the industrialized world consider themselves environmentalists Yet environmental problems continue to worsen While the environmental movement is winning the battle for the hearts and minds of citizens in the United States and across the globe it may be losing the war to preserve the health of the planet and its biological diversity The reasons become clear in this book Leslie Paul Thiele provides a much needed analysis of the driving forces within the environmental movement and the key challenges that it faces He begins with a concise history of the movement in the United States where he identifies four successive waves of environmental thought and action The first wave conservation emerged in the mid 1800s and focused on the responsible use of natural resources and the preservation of isolated tracts of wilderness By the 1960s the general public had become aware of the widespread impact of environmental problems on human health and welfare A concern for the containment of industrial society s environmental degradation emerged This second wave was followed by a period of co optation beginning in the 1980s as a now popular social movement made a significant impact on public policy and witnessed the dilution of its goals Thiele largely focuses on the fourth and current wave of coevolution Coevolutionary thought and action is grounded in the interdependence of humans and nature in a global context With the goal of sustainable development in mind contemporary environmentalists argue that human livelihoods must be integrated into complex and evolving ecological systems This affirmation of coevolutionary interdependence has brought coherence to an inherently diverse social movement Through extensive interviews and a critical study of environmental publications and scholarly research the author provides an inside look at the environmental movement His analysis illuminates the social economic political and cultural forces that shape the environmental movement today and set its trajectory for the 21st century Anyone interested the future of environmentalism will find this book an invaluable guide
