Australian Books and Authors in the American

Marketplace 1840s-1940s David Carter,Roger Osborne,2018-07-02 Australian Books and Authors in the American Marketplace 1840s 1940s explores how Australian writers and their works were present in the United States before the mid twentieth century to a much greater degree than previously acknowledged Drawing on fresh archival research and combining the approaches of literary criticism print culture studies and book history David Carter and Roger Osborne demonstrate that Australian writing was transnational long before the contemporary period In mapping Australian literature s connections to British and US markets their research challenges established understandings of national imperial and world literatures Carter and Osborne examine how Australian authors editors and publishers engaged productively with their American counterparts and how American readers and reviewers responded to Australian works They consider the role played by British publishers and agents in taking Australian writing to America and how the international circulation of new literary genres created new opportunities for novelists to move between markets Some of these writers such as Christina Stead and Patrick White remain household names others who once enjoyed international fame such as Dale Collins and Alice Grant Rosman have been largely forgotten The story of their books in America reveals how culture commerce and copyright law interacted to create both opportunities and obstacles for Australian writers

Living with the Royal Academy Sarah

Monks,2017-07-05 Living with the Royal Academy Artistic Ideals and Experiences in England 1768 1848 offers a range of case studies which consider individual artists personal professional and artistic relationships with the Royal Academy during the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries bringing together the research of leading historians of British artistic culture during this period Over its introduction and nine essays this collection considers the Academy as a lived organism whose most effective role following its establishment in 1768 was as a reference point towards around and against which artists operated in their relationships with each other and with artistic practice itself In so doing this collection also considers the relationship between Academic ideals and individual practice as well as lived experience during this period of art s increasingly public manifestation at the Academy Individual artists examined include Joshua Reynolds Joseph Wright of Derby Benjamin West and William Etty Thinking beyond the dichotomy of loyalism and rebellion and complicating notions of the Academy as a monolithic ossifying institution from which progressive artists would be liberated in the wake of the Pre Raphaelite Brotherhood s emergence in 1848 this volume investigates the Academy s varied impact upon the lives experiences and ideals of its diverse artistic communities Living with the Royal Academy Professor John Barrell,2013-12-16 Living with the Royal Academy directs attention to the textures of artists relationships with the Royal Academy in late eighteenth and early nineteenth century Britain This essay collection considers the Academy as a lived organism one whose most effective role was as a reference point around which artists operated in their relationships with each other and with artistic practice itself Idols of the Marketplace D. Hawkes,2001-10-11 Postmodern society seems incapable of elaborating an ethical critique of the market economy Early modern society showed no such reticence Between 1580 and 1680 Aristotelian teleology was replaced as the dominant mode of philosophy in England by Baconian empiricism This was a process with implications for every sphere of life for politics and theology economics and ethics aesthetics and sexuality Through nuanced and original readings of Shakespeare Herbert Donne Milton Traherne and Bunyan David Hawkes sheds light on the antitheatrical controversy and early modern debates over idolatry and value and trade Hawkes argues that the people of Renaissance England believed that the decline of telos resulted in a reified fetishistic mode of consciousness which manifests itself in such phenomena as religious idolatry commodity fetish and carnal sensuality He suggests that the resulting early modern critique of the market economy has much to offer postmodern society Medievalism and the Academy Leslie J. Workman,Kathleen Verduin,David Metzger,David D. Metzger,1999 The first of a two volume examination of medievalism and academic scholarship this collection is divided into four sections Canonizing Chaucer Antiquarian loomings Medievalism medieval studies and Medieval studies at the millennium Medievalism the continuing process of creating the middle ages engenders formal medieval studies from a wide variety of popular interests in the middle ages This volume accordingly explores the common ground between artisticand popular constructions of the middle ages and the study of the middle ages within the academy Essays treat the genesis of medieval studies in early modern antiquarianism the erection of academic medievalism through persistent indeed perverse appeals to heroic medieval manliness and attenuated female spirituality the current jeopardy of the book a medieval invention in the face of technological assau Contributors DAVID O MATTHEWS STEVE ELLIS ANTONIA WARD GRAHAM PARRY MARGARET CLUNIES ROSS ANNA SMOL DAVID ALLAN MATILDE MATEO MARYA DEVOTO ULRIKE WIETHAUS STEPHEN STEELE JAMES KENNEDY WILLIAM CALIN JESSE D HURLBUT JOAN GRENIER WINTHER WILLIAM PADEN Medical Innovation in the Changing Healthcare Marketplace National Research Council,Institute of Medicine,Board on Health Care Services,Policy and Global Affairs,Board on Science, Technology, and Economic Policy,2002-06-06 A wave of new health care innovation and growing demand for health care coupled with uncertain productivity improvements could severely challenge efforts to control future health care costs. A committee of the National Research Council and the Institute of Medicine organized a conference to examine key health care trends and their impact on medical innovation. The conference addressed the following question: In an environment of renewed concern about rising health care costs, where can public policy stimulate or remove disincentives to the development, adoption, and diffusion of high value innovation in diagnostics, therapeutics, and devices. From the Universities to the Marketplace: The Business Ethics Journey Marilyn Fleckenstein, Mary Maury, Laura Pincus, Pat Primeaux, 2012-12-06. Postcolonial Literatures in the Local Literary Marketplace Jenni Ramone, 2020-08-06. This book asks what reading means in India, Nigeria, the UK, and Cuba through close readings of literary texts from postcolonial spatial, architectural, cartographic, materialist, trauma, and gender perspectives. It contextualises these close readings through new interpretations of local literary marketplaces to assert the significance of local, not global, meanings. The book offers longer case studies on novels that stage important reading moments: Alejo Carpentier's The Lost Steps (1953), Leonardo Padura's Adios Hemingway (2001), Tabish Khair's Filming (2007), Chibundu Onuzo's Welcome to Lagos (2017), and Zadie Smith's Swing Time (2016). Chapters argue that while India's literary market was disrupted by Partition, literature offers a means of moving beyond trauma. In post-Revolutionary Cuba, the Special Period led to exploitation of Cuban literary culture, resulting in texts that foreground reading spaces. In Nigeria, the market hosts meeting, negotiation, reflection, and trade, including the writer's trade. While Black consciousness bookshops and writing in Britain operated to challenge the UK literary market, a project is still underway. This book is a vindication of reading and of the resistant power and creative potential of local literary marketplaces. It insists on located reading, enabling close reading of world literatures sited in their local materialities.

The Fifties Spiritual Marketplace Robert S. Ellwood, 1997. Ellwood frames his detailed and lively account with the provocative idea of the fifties as a supply-side free enterprise spiritual marketplace with heady competition between religious groups and leaders, and with church attendance at a record high.

The Marketplace of Ideas Louis Menand, 2010-12-06. Crisp and illuminating, well worth reading. Wall Street Journal. The publication of The Marketplace of Ideas has precipitated a lively debate about the future of the American university system: what makes it so hard for colleges to decide which subjects are required? Why are so many academics against the concept of interdisciplinary studies? From his position at the heart of academe, Harvard professor Louis Menand thinks he's found the answer. Despite the vast social changes and technological advancements that have revolutionized the society at large general principles of scholarly organization curriculum and philosophy have remained remarkably static Sparking a long overdue debate about the future of American education The Marketplace of Ideas argues that twenty first century professors and students are essentially trying to function in a nineteenth century system and that the resulting conflict threatens to overshadow the basic pursuit of knowledge and truth

Science and the Marketplace in Early Modern Italy Brendan Maurice Dooley,2001-01-01 In this book Brendan Dooley examines Italian scientific communications in early modern history He demonstrates that Italian science between the age of Galileo and the age of Galvani and Volta underwent two revolutions While the methodological innovations of the time have received copious attention Dooley is concerned with the revolution in published communications which has hardly been studied at all What his innovative research shows in sum is that the accomplishments of Galvani and Volta were not based upon a cultural void but rather a century and a half of fervid activity aiming to consolidate the accomplishments of Galileo reinforce scientific institutions establish observation and experiment as the dominant methodology and improve science s public relations This process challenged traditional institutional hierarchies of specialized knowledge and had far reaching interdisciplinary implications for the development of universities the profession of university science researcher the academies and even state government Environmental Ethics and the Global Marketplace Dorinda G.

Dallmeyer,Albert F. Ike,1998 The global market is the largest and most powerful socioeconomic institution on the planet and as such it demands that those who desire to benefit from it or those who seek to regulate it realize the economic and environmental consequences of their actions The contributors to Environmental Ethics and the Global Marketplace argue that the health of the environment is inextricably linked to the health of the economy and economic strength depends on the preservation of environmental values Ultimately economic and environmental sciences must merge more completely if we are to arrive at ethically justified principles as the basis for national and international environmental policy process enabling environmental ethics to move beyond academic venues into domestic and international decision making in the Cultural Marketplace Ana Cristina Mendes,2016-03-23 Taking up the roles that Salman Rushdie himself has assumed as a cultural broker gatekeeper and mediator in various spheres of public production Ana Cristina Mendes situates his work in terms of the contemporary production circulation and consumption of postcolonial texts within the workings of the cultural industries Mendes pays particular attention to Rushdie as a public performer across various creative platforms not only as a novelist and short story writer but also as a public intellectual reviewer and film critic Mendes argues that how a postcolonial author becomes personally and professionally enmeshed in the dealings of the cultural industries is of particular relevance at a time when the market is strictly regulated by a few multinational corporations She contends that marginality should not be construed exclusively as a basis for understanding Rushdie s work since a critical grounding in marginality will predictably involve a reproduction of the traditional postcolonial binaries of oppressor oppressed and colonizer colonized that the writer

Salman Rushdie

subverts Rather she seeks to expand existing interpretations of Rushdie s work itineraries and frameworks in order to take into account the actual conditions of postcolonial cultural production and circulation within a marketplace that is global in both orientation and effects
