The PhD Experience in African Higher Education John Mashayamombe, Ruth Murambadoro, uMbuso weNkosi, 2022-11-08 The PhD Experience in African Higher Education edited by Ruth Murambadoro John Mashayamombe and uMbuso weNkosi addresses the growing call to invest in the humanities and social sciences by exploring the nature of doctoral training in select institutions of higher learning in South Africa In the past two decades South Africa has become a key player in the global higher education landscape and dubbed the hub for doctoral training in Africa because of its developed educational infrastructure and highly ranked universities Given South Africa's positioning the contributors in this volume argue that the government donors universities and faculty have a socio legal duty to ensure that doctoral programs in the humanities and social sciences are not offered to amass numbers of African graduates but are grounded on equipping students with both hard and soft skills necessary to succeed This is achieved by offering skills training and research apprenticeships fostered in communities of practice because as the contributors show the humanities and social sciences are the backbone of society Furthermore they argue that treating doctoral candidates as equal partners is emancipatory because intellectual projects are best nurtured through collaborative learning

A Primer for Teaching African History Trevor R. Getz, 2018-03-15 A Primer for Teaching African History is a guide for college and high school teachers who are teaching African history for the first time for experienced teachers who want to reinvigorate their courses for those who are training future teachers to prepare their own syllabi and for teachers who want to incorporate African history into their world history courses Trevor R Getz offers design principles aimed at facilitating a classroom experience that will help students navigate new knowledge historical skills ethical development and worldviews He foregrounds the importance of acknowledging and addressing student preconceptions about Africa challenging chronological approaches to history exploring identity and geography as ways to access historical African perspectives and investigating the potential to engage in questions of ethics that studying African history provides In his discussions of setting goals pedagogy assessment and syllabus design Getz draws readers into the process of thinking consciously and strategically about designing courses on African history that will challenge students to think critically about Africa and the discipline of history

Not Eleven Languages Leketi Makalela, 2022-07-05 Dynamic language practices of African multilingual speakers have not been cogently described in a book length manuscript This book challenges assumptions that led to South Africa's 11 official languages and makes a case for mutual intercomprehensibility. Students, teachers, and scholars in sociolinguistics, multilingualism, translanguaging, and teacher education will find this book thought provoking.

Love, Intimacy, and the African American Couple Katherine M. Helm, Jon Carlson, 2013-03-12 This exciting new text on counseling African American couples outlines critical components to providing culturally sensitive treatment. Built around a framework that examines African American couples' issues as well as the specific contextual factors that can negatively impact their relationships, it addresses threats to love and intimacy for Black couples. Provides culturally relevant strengths-based approaches and assessment practices. Includes interesting case studies at the conclusion of each chapter that illustrate important concepts. The chapters span the current state of couple relationships; readers will find information for working with lesbians and gays in relationships, pastoral counseling, and intercultural Black couples. There is also a chapter for non-Black therapists who work with Black clients. Dispersed throughout the book are interviews with prominent African American couples experts: Dr. Chalandra Bryant, relationship expert Audrey B. Chapman, Dr. Daryl Rowe, and Dr. Sandra Lyons Rowe and Dr. Thomas Parham. They provide personal insight on issues such as the strengths African Americans bring to relationships, their skills and struggles, and gender and class considerations. This must-read book will significantly help you and your clients.

The SAGE Encyclopedia of War: Social Science Perspectives Paul Joseph, 2016-10-11 Traditional explorations of war look through the lens of history and military science, focusing on big events, big battles, and big generals. By contrast, The SAGE Encyclopedia of War: Social Science Perspective views war through the lens of the social sciences, looking at the causes, processes, and effects of war and drawing from a vast group of fields such as communication and mass media, economics, political science, and law, psychology, and sociology. Key features include: More than 650 entries organized in an A to Z format, authored and signed by key academics in the field. Entries conclude with cross-references and further readings, aiding the researcher further in their research journeys. An alternative Reader's Guide table of contents groups articles by disciplinary areas and by broad themes. A helpful Resource Guide directing researchers to classic books, journals, and electronic resources for more in-depth study. This important and distinctive work will be a key reference for all researchers in the fields of political science, international relations, and sociology.

The African-American Experience in Nineteenth-Century Connecticut Theresa Vara-Dannen, 2014-03-06 The African American Experience in Nineteenth-Century Connecticut examines and analyzes the African American experience in Connecticut as it was through primary sources. Theresa Vara-Dannen analyzes the language of real nineteenth-century Americans expressing the complexity of their thoughts and feelings about the racial issues of their times in a small state with very small communities of people of color. This book highlights the attitudes of ordinary people whose voices emerged, sometimes heroically, through their daily newspapers. The meshing of these voices regarding their race-related experiences provides a nuanced account of a long-gone past but also gives us an understanding of twenty-first-century Connecticut, which leads the nation in the educational and economic gap between urban and nonurban citizens and has one of the most segregated school systems and residential patterns in the nation

The Khoesan Languages Rainer Vossen, 2013-03-05 The Routledge Language Family series is aimed at undergraduates and postgraduates of linguistics and language and those with an interest in historical linguistics linguistic anthropology and language development According to a widely accepted hypothesis the Khoesan languages represent the smallest of the four language phyla in Africa geographically distributed mainly in Botswana and Namibia Today only 30 or so Khoesan languages may still exist with about 300 000 native speakers In other words most Khoesan languages were already extinct before a sound scholarly interest in them could begin to develop Drawing together a distinguished group of international experts with much of the material taken from data collected by the authors own field work this volume presents descriptive typological historical comparative and sociolinguistic material on Khoesan The Khoesan Languages contains eight sections an introduction an overview of genetic relationships a typological survey and profile of Khoesan four chapters covering core linguistic areas of Khoesan phonetics and phonology tonology morphology and syntax and a final chapter tackling major issues in Khoesan sociolinguistics as well as discussions of language contact Comprehensive and scholarly yet also lucid in its coverage of a broad range of languages dialects and sub groups this unprecedented and original work represents the current state of Khoesan linguistics

Technology and the African-American Experience Bruce Sinclair, 2004 The intersection of race and technology blackcreativity and the economic and social functions of the myth of disingenuity

Giving Space to African Voices Zehlia Babaci-Wilhite, 2014-08-07 This book sets out to bring voices of the South to the debate on localization of education and makes the case that it should be considered a right in education Despite all the scientifically based evidence on the improved quality of education through the use of a local language and local knowledge English as a language of instruction and Western knowledge based curriculum continue to be used at all educational levels in many developing nations This means that in many African countries the goal of rights to education is becoming increasingly remote let alone that of rights in education With this understanding and with the awareness of the education challenges of millions of children throughout Africa the authors argue that local curriculum through local languages needs to be valued and to be preserved and that children need to be prepared for the world in a language that promotes understanding The authors make a clear case that policy makers are in a position to work towards a quality education for all as part of a more comprehensive right based approach We owe it to the children of the South to offer the best quality education possible in order to achieve social justice
