Baker, 2019-05-06 A new and urgently needed guide to making the American economy more competitive at a time when tech giants have amassed vast market power The U S economy is growing less competitive Large businesses increasingly profit by taking advantage of their customers and suppliers These firms can also use sophisticated pricing algorithms and customer data to secure substantial and persistent advantages over smaller players In our new Gilded Age the likes of Google and Amazon fill the roles of Standard Oil and U S Steel Jonathan Baker shows how business practices harming competition manage to go unchecked The law has fallen behind technology but that is not the only problem Inspired by Robert Bork Richard Posner and the Chicago school the Supreme Court has since the Reagan years steadily eroded the protections of antitrust The Antitrust Paradigm demonstrates that Chicago style reforms intended to unleash competitive enterprise have instead inflated market power harming the welfare of workers and consumers squelching innovation and reducing overall economic growth Baker identifies the errors in economic arguments for staying the course and advocates for a middle path between laissez faire and forced deconcentration the revival of pro competitive economic regulation of which antitrust has long been the backbone Drawing on the latest in empirical and theoretical economics to defend the benefits of antitrust Baker shows how enforcement and jurisprudence can be updated for the high tech economy His prescription is straightforward The sooner courts and the antitrust enforcement agencies stop listening to the Chicago school and start paying attention to modern economics the sooner Americans will reap the benefits of competition

Left Brain, Right Stuff Phil Rosenzweig,2014-01-07 Left Brain Right Stuff takes up where other books about decision making leave off For many routine choices from shopping to investing we can make good decisions simply by avoiding common errors such as searching only for confirming information or avoiding the hindsight bias But as Phil Rosenzweig shows for many of the most important more complex situations we face in business sports politics and more a different way of thinking is required Leaders must possess the ability to shape opinions inspire followers manage risk and outmaneuver and outperform rivals Making winning decisions calls for a combination of skills clear analysis and calculation left brain as well as the willingness to push boundaries and take bold action right stuff Of course leaders need to understand the dynamics of competition to anticipate rival moves to draw on the power of statistical analysis and to be aware of common decision errors all features of left brain thinking But to achieve the unprecedented in real world situations much more is needed Leaders also need the right stuff In business they have to devise plans and inspire followers for successful execution in politics they must mobilize popular support for a chosen program in the military commanders need to commit to a battle strategy and lead their troops and in start ups entrepreneurs must manage risk when success is uncertain In every case success calls for action as well as analysis and for courage as well as calculation Always entertaining often surprising and immensely practical Left

Brain Right Stuff draws on a wealth of examples in order to propose a new paradigm for decision making in synch with the way we have to operate in the real world. Rosenzweig's smart and perceptive analysis of research provides fresh and often surprising insights on topics such as confidence and overconfidence, the uses and limits of decision models, the illusion of control, expert performance and deliberate practice, competitive bidding and new venture management, and the true nature of leadership.
