Designing Human-Swarm Interaction Systems Oscar Bjurling, 2025-02-20 Swarms of Unmanned Aerial Vehicles UAVs or drones are envisioned to transform various fields from emergency response to law enforcement and military operations Drone swarms provide scalable adaptable and decentralized solutions for dynamic work environments However the successful integration of these multi agent systems into real world settings presents significant challenges particularly in terms of how humans can safely and effectively interact with and control these systems Human Swarm Interaction HSI aims to address these challenges by exploring how human operators can manage multiple drones in a cohesive manner even under highly complex uncertain conditions This thesis studies the problem of designing effective interaction mechanisms and interfaces for human operators to command drone swarms specifically addressing challenges such as managing a large number of drones supporting operators situational awareness and balancing between centralized and decentralized control The research highlights the necessity of rethinking conventional approaches by introducing alternative conceptual models such as the choir metaphor which re imagines drone swarms as coordinated semi centralized ensembles rather than purely emergent decentralized collectives This metaphor aims to balance the collective often unpredictable behavior of drone swarms with the predictable directed actions needed in operational environments By demonstrating how this metaphor can be operationalized in an HSI system architecture the thesis provides new avenues for conceptualizing human interaction with autonomous systems Using a design research approach incorporating multiple case study and scenario based design activities to envision future swarm application in dialogue with prospective end users the thesis develops and evaluates prototypes that embody these nuanced HSI concepts The interface prototypes draw design inspiration from Real Time Strategy RTS games These elements include group commands high level mission planning and resource pooling to create a hybrid interaction model that allows operators to maintain both a broad overview and precise control of multiple autonomous and collaborating drones Domain expert evaluations of these prototypes in contexts such as firefighting and airport management validate the practical utility of these concepts The findings emphasize the value of adopting a Human Technology Organization HTO perspective in the design of HSI systems Rather than focusing solely on the interaction between humans and technology this systems thinking approach acknowledges that drone swarms must be integrated into larger organizational frameworks such as emergency response command structures or airport ground operations teams It demonstrates that successful deployment requires accounting for the broader organizational context including roles workflows and coordination needs This holistic approach to HSI system design ensures that drone swarms not only meet technical performance criteria such as reliability responsiveness and scalability but also align with human and organizational needs facilitating their adoption and effective use in a wide range of real world scenarios Ultimately these contributions are intended to bridge the gap between theoretical models of swarm control and practical deployment advancing both the field of HSI and the broader adoption of drone swarm technologies

Grönsnittens prototyper drar designinspiration från realtidsstrategispel RTS. Dessa element inkluderar enhetshantering och kommandon på gruppnivå, strategisk uppdragsplanering och resursdelning för att skapa en hybrid interaktionsmodell som gör det möjligt för operatörer att behålla en bred överblick och utöva precis kontroll över flera autonoma och samverkande drönare. Därefter utvärderas dessa prototyper i arbetskontexter som brandbekämpning och flygplatsledning på visar den praktiska användbarheten av dessa koncept. Resultaten betonar värdet av att anta ett Människa-Teknik-Organisation (MTO) perspektiv vid utformningen av MSI-system. Snarare än att enbart fokusera på interaktionen mellan människor och teknik erkänner detta systemtänkande tillvägagångssätt att drönarsvär måste integreras i större organisatoriska ramverk som ledningsstrukturer för räddningsinsatser eller markoperativa team på flygplatser. Det visar att framgångsrik implementering av drönarsvär kräver att systemutvecklare tar hänsyn till det bredare organisatoriska sammanhanget inklusive roller, arbetsflöden och samverkansbehov. Detta holistiska tillvägagångssätt för utformningen av MSI-system säkerställer att drönarsvär inte bara uppfyller tekniska prestandakriterier såsom tillförlitlighet, responsivitet och skalbarhet utan också verkar i samklang med mänskliga och organisatoriska behov vilket underlättar deras införande och effektiv användning i en mängd olika tillämpningsscenarier. Verklagen presenterar dessa forskningsbidrag avsedda att förbrygga gapet mellan teoretiska modeller för svärstyrning och praktisk implementering och därmed avancera och främja både MSI-området och den bredare användningen av svärteknologier.

Papers ... Manchester Literary Club, 1897 Learning, Natural Capital and Sustainable Development John Foster, Stephen Gough, 2013-09-13 This special issue of the journal Environmental Education Research addresses a topical area of importance: human behaviour towards the environment. The book explores the economic metaphor of natural capital in this context, arguing that the currently dominant model of sustainable development underpinned by a particular understanding of this metaphor is impeding progress towards genuine sustainability and secondly that it will continue to do so until the metaphor can be reworked in both thought and practice. This book explores an alternative economic model of natural capital value based on recent real options thinking which reworks the natural capital idea and provides a framework for articulating two major and closely related shifts of emphasis.
